For former city employee

Rehearing re-affirms $14,000 back pay award

A Romulus animal control officer, who worked only three months for the city before being fired by the mayor, has been awarded $14,000 in back pay by the Wayne County Employment and Training Administration (WCETA).

Who will pay the bulk of the wages to Raymond Block, the City of Romulus or CETA, the federal agency which funded his employment with the city, is yet to be determined.

Block was hired by the city under its CETA program Sept. 8, 1978, and discharged on Dec. 8, 1978.

An opinion given following a rehearing July 21, 1980, which was asked for by the city, reiterated a decision rendered after the first hearing before WCETA on Oct. 17, 1979, by Bob Anderson, hearing officer.

Anderson ruled that the city had violated CETA regulations in regard to informing Block of the name of his employer and his wages and benefits. Further, Anderson said the city was in "apparent" violation of CETA regulations in not assuring Block of "...working conditions...neither more nor less favorable than such other employes similarly employed..."

Anderson also rapped the city for its personnel policies which put Block "in a position that he did not know if he had a right to refuse the request of the mayor and still continue his employment."

In his grievance filed with WCETA, Block charged that he was fired because of his "political belief" in regard to Al Lucke, his supervisor at the animal pound.

According to Block's attorney, Noel P. Keane of Dearborn, the city denied his client's allegation and stated that he was fired because of his performance on the job.

At his first hearing before WCETA, Block testified that when he began his employment, Mayor William M. Oakley told him to do his job and to "keep his nose clean".

He also said the mayor told him that he was not satisfied with Block's supervisor (Lucke) and his performance at the animal pound and had asked him (Block) to keep him informed on activities at the pound.

Block also testified that Lee Silvey, director of the animal control department, and Lucke's superior, also asked him to report on Lucke's activities.

On the day before his dismissal, Block said a meeting was held at the animal pound by Silvey with his employees. He testified that Silvey asked pound employees to put allegations against Lucke in writing. Block said he did not do so.

On the following day, Dec. 8, 1978, Block was summoned to a meeting at city hall and told he was fired because he did not turn in the necessary paper work to get Lucke discharged, Block's testimony before the WCETA hearing stated.

Attending the meeting, Block said, were the mayor, Silvey, Patrick Hogan, community development director and CETA coordinator; and Sandra J. Spjut, personnel director.

Later, at a meeting with the mayor, Block testified that Oakley had admitted he made a mistake, but that the decision to fire him must stand. However, the mayor offered to give him references for other employment, Block said.

When he attempted to get unemployment compensation, the city objected, Block said. The city was overruled, he testified, because the compensation board found that the city had not established a valid reason for his termination.

In his testimony, Block said he never had been disciplined or reprimanded for his work performance prior to his discharge.

The city was represented at both WCETA hearings by Charles Lowther, city attorney.

In his findings and opinion, Anderson, the hearing officer, said Block's testimony that Oakley several times said he wanted Lucke fired was never disputed.

Anderson said Block, on one hand, was told to not get involved and, on the other hand, told to keep the mayor informed of Lucke's activities.

"This, in the hearing officer's opinion, is an attempt at the use of political influence," stated Anderson in his ruling. "However, the hearings officer is not totally convinced that this case in and of itself resulted in a violation of the applicable CETA regulations. It is, however, unsound personnel management."

Also, Anderson found that Silvey's testimony indicated that Block was never told that he was on probation and that no organized procedure was followed to determine whether he was a suitable employee or not.

The hearings officer said statements made by Mrs. Spjut, the personnel officer, did not constitute a "legally sound document" as an affidavit. He explained that she swore "to statements and acts made and performed by someone else".

Anderson's opinion also stated that Block "was never warned that his failure to reply to the mayor's request might result in his termination".

Anderson's opinion also stated that Block "was never warned that his failure to reply to the mayor's

All smiles

From pretty faces to funny faces the annual Wayne County 4-H Fair Parade had it all Sunday. Reigning over the festivities was 4-H queen Jill Fields of Livonia, who was selected to wear the crown in competition two weeks ago. She provided the smiling pretty face for the parade, while Tim Harden (below) of Belleville, an employee of Horst Manufacturing, also of Belleville, provided one of many funny faces that filled the parade. For a lens-eye view of the parade, see ANP Chief Photographer Lothar E. Konietzko's photos story on Page A-3.

Folmar loses control of renewal program

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

A widening rift between Romulus Clerk Leonard Folmar and the City Council grew even wider last week when that legislative body voted to take the city's urban renewal program from his jurisdiction.

The council members apparently were irate over Folmar's action July 29 in taking a truck from the DPW garage and using it to pick up storm debris in the urban renewal area.

Only a month ago, the clerk was cut off in the question of an audience member by Mary Ann Banks, council chairman, He was criticized at that time by Councilman Jimmie Raspberry, who claimed Folmar was exceeding his authority under the city charter.

Raspberry proposed the motion last Wednesday night that resulted in transferring control of the urban renewal program from the clerk to Patrick Hogan, community development director and grants coordinator.

"I plan to talk to the mayor about the council's action," said Folmar. "Based on what he says, I will proceed from there."

The clerk indicated that recent developments have prompted him to also question the relationship between his office and that of Mayor William M. Oakley on some city matters.

Commenting on council's action last week, the clerk said. "The City Council has no authority over who will handle the various administrative functions of the city. Urban renewal grants have been handled by the grants department, but the clerk's office always has handled clerical responsibilities associated with the program."

Recalling what happened July 29, Folmar said that the July 16 storm left a large quantity of fallen trees, branches and other debris in the urban renewal area. He said he went to the DPW garage to get one of the two trucks assigned to his office — a enclosed small delivery type van and an open bed truck.

While there, he noticed that the city's large truck with a chipper, a machine that grinds up limbs and branches, was in the garage, dispite the fact that a lot of storm debris was still piled up in yards and on curbs throughout the city.

Although he later admitted his actions were a bit hasty, the clerk said he attempted to take an open bed truck to pick up storm debris. A DPW supervisor said the truck needed gasoline, but a check showed it to be full, Folmar said.

Next, he was told the truck was out of oil, but that check revealed that the oil level was up to the full mark. When he again tried to drive away, he was told that the truck lacked a tail light and should not be driven on the road.

Exasperated, Folmar said he would take the responsibility for the truck's condition. Before driving out of the garage, he stopped at the office of David Paul, DPW director, to tell him that he was taking the truck. He said Paul neither gave his permission to take the vehicle nor did he forbid the clerk from driving out of the garage with the truck.

"I couldn't just sit by and see all of that storm debris out in the urban renewal area and all of those trucks idle at the DPW garage," Folmar said.

The clerk explained that in the past unresolved urban renewal matters had been worked out as a cooperative effort between him, the mayor and the grants department.

"City Council should be more concerned with their function as a legislative body that in trying to run the city administration," Folmar concluded.

In Huron primary

Sullivan upsets Haener in voting

Former Treasurer F. Sullivan pulled a surprise Aug. 5, upsetting favored A.J.Haener, veteran township board trustee, in winning the Democrat nomination for supervisor of Huron Township.

Huron voters turned down a proposal that would permit a maximum of 1¾ mills to be levied for a police protection special assessment district by a 756 to 521 vote margin.

But, a second proposal to authorize the township to continue garbage and rubbish pickup in residential areas and to assess charges for those services won 719 to 554.

The clerk's office reported that unofficial tabulations showed that 1,603 voters cast representing 33 percent of a total regestered voter population of about 4,800.

Sullivan received 394 votes to 384 for Haener, winning by a narrow 10-vote margin in the township's primary election. Wayne C. Merriman, third Democrat in the nomination race, pulled 282 votes.

The only Republican candidate, Eugene W. Perecki, got 185 votes and will automatically become his party's nominee in the fall general election.

With only Democrat candidates running in the nominating race for clerk, incumbent Mary Lou Carey got the nod. she garnered 603 votes to 438 for challenger James C. Cook. She will become the clerk after the fall election.

The contest for treasurer had only one candidate, Christine F. Gamber, who was named to that post when Sullivan resigned last year. She therefore will become the elected township treasurer since she will have no opposition in the fall election.

Gamber received 640 votes.

Five Democrats and five Republicans vied for four slots each in the nominating battle for township bord trustee, with three incumbents winning a chance to run in November.

Democrat incumbents who won last Tuesday were Frederick F. Ashby, 700 votes; William J. Geierman, 672; and John Puskar, 663. They were joined by fellow Democrat Helen Kowalski, who got 583 votes.

On the Republican side, trustee nominees will be Robert Lemieux, 167 votes; Sidney Dent, 146; Gary G. Bates, 183 and George Angel, 145.

Only two Democratic candidates ran for constable and will become the township's constables come next fall. They are William H. Manny, who got 528 votes, and DeVere R. Williard, 510. Both are incumbents.

All terms of office will be for four years.

Kobe takes his Army basic training

Pvt. Kenneth A. Kobe, the son of Mrs. Delores D. Kobe of Bruce Street, Romulus, is attending basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

During his training, he will receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

Also in the armed forces:

Arthur L. Wakeford, 18, the son of Arthur J. Wakeford, of Merriman Road, Romulus, and Karen L. Wakeford of Highland, Mich., has entered the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to S. Sgt. Bernie Schmidt, Air Force recruiter, Wadeford's entry into the DEP serves two purposes. First, it allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area. Second, the DEP enables Wakeford, a 1980 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School, to wrap up his personal affairs before leaving home.

Wakeford will enter the Regular Air Force on Sept. 14. Following graduation from the 6-week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., he will receive technical training in the mechanical aptitude area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

WILLIAM D. LaBOE

Airman William D. LaBoe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester LaBoe of Crossman, Carleton, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the civil engineering field.

Navy Gunner's Mate Lawrence J. Kusak, whose wife, Nora, is the daughter of Burton A. and Mary Roberts of King Road, Romulus, recently participated in exercise "Multiplex 1-80" in the Indian Ocean.

He is a crewmember aboard the destroyer USS Hewitt, homeported in San Diego.

The two-day multi-threat exercise place emphasis on U.S. and British Royal Navy joint anti-air and anti-surface warfare tactics. The exercise was the first of a series conducted with the British force during the ship's deployment to the Indian Ocean.

Kusak joined the Navy in October 1968.

Navy Aviation Machinist's Mate Airman Appren. Robert W. Hayes, the son of Harley V. and Lea Hayes of Belleville Road, Belleville Mich., also participated in exercise "Mulitplex 1-80" in the Indian Ocean.

He is a member of Fighter Squadron 211, based at the Miramar Naval Air Station, San Diego, and currently embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS Constellation.

A 1979 graduate of Belleville High School, Hayes joined the Navy in June 1979.

Navy Aviation Ordnanceman Airman Apprentice James A. Merrell, the son of James L. and Judy Merrel of Garner, Romulus, has reported for duty with Fighter Squadron 21, Miramar Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif.

A 1979 graduate of Huron Valley Lutheran High School, Inkster, he joined the Navy in September 1979.

The largest number of jobs openings in the 1980s is expected to be for secretaries, retail sales clerks, building custodians, and cashiers. Each will offer from 100,000 to 300,000 openings a year, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics projects.

Unemployment rate climbs to 14.1 percent

Michigan's July unemployment rate edged up to 14.1 percent from 14.0 percent in June, according to estimates released by Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) Deputy Director A.R. Jazowski.

Jazowski explained that Michigan's unemployment level fell slightly in July to 617,000 from June's 620,000. Last year, July 1979, the state's jobless rate was 7.7 with 338,000 out of work.

The state's labor force dropped by 40,000 last month to 4,373,000, as discouraged summer job seekers quit the labor force followingtheir unsuccessful attempts at finding work. The combination of a smaller labor force and only a slight drop in unemployment produced the higher jobless rate in July.

Total employment around the state fell to 3,757,000 in July from 3,793,000 in June. Jazowski said the decline resulted from layoffs for model changeover and production adjustments in the auto industry.

The national unemployment rate in July was 7.8 percent, up from 7.7 percent in June.

July jobless estimates for Michigan's major metropolitan areas will be available in late August.

Dr. Stabnau named to ACA membership

Dr. Charles Stabnau of Belleville has been selected for membership in the American Chiropractic Association. The announcement was made at the organization's national headquarters at Des Moines, Iowa.

As a member of the ACA, Dr. Stabnau joins thousands of fellow doctors of chiropractic, all dedicated to improving general health care.

Dr. Stabnau is a graduate of Palmer College of Chiropractic, located at Davenport, Iowa, and also is a member of ICA.

Membership dues support major programs of chiropractic education and research, and provide materials for use in public education and vocational guidance.

The announcement of Dr. Stabnau's selection was made by Dr. Edwin M. Kendrick, president of the American Chiropractic Association.

Everyone loves a parade

When most people think of the 4-H Program, they think of farming and related interests. But there's more to it than that, and that's what its members showed to residents of the Belleville community, during the annual Wayne County 4-H Fair Parade Sunday. The 4-Hers built floats depicting the various aspects of the youth program they are involved in. Floats included the Canine Capers, a program in which the youths raise, care for and train their own dogs, and the Branding Irons, which placed second in judging for floats. Also joining in the parade were representatives of the Wayne County Sheriff's mounted patrol, clowns, and horse units like the Romulus Horsemen, who were first in the judging of mounted units. Parade marshall for the annual parade was William Krueger (photo at left) of Belleville, who helped found the fair with 10 other people 34 years ago. Krueger is a charter member of the 4-H and has been awarded a lifetime membership.—ANP photos by Lothar E. Konietzko.

School board dissolves its citizen advisory panel

A citizens advisory committee Monday night was dissolved by the Romulus Board of Education.

The group, which has worked closely with the school board on a diversified number of school issues, will be placed by "single-purpose" committees, said School Supt. William Bedell.

The board will compile a list of the names of persons interested in serving on these committees, he explained. Then, specific individuals will be assigned to the various committees, whose task, as the name implies, will be to work on a single project.

Dr. Bedell said the first single-purpose committee chosen will be one to work on the $178,000 balance in the building and site account. The committee will make a recommendation to the school board on what should be done with the excess funds.

In other action, the school board approved the superintendent's request to select four bus drivers who will work with him to revise and alter current bus routes for student pickup. The changes will be made in bus routes for the coming school year, Dr. Bedell said.

The school board also gave approval to transferring the kindergarten class at Hayti Elementary School to Corey Elementary School.

Board trustees also okayed the school system's participation with the City of Romulus in the public auction of obsolete equipment in the near future.

At the previous school board session, trustees concurred with a recommendation from Dr. Bedell that James Garfield, former superintendent, be named business administrator at a reduced salary of $38,800 per year. Garfield, who stepped down as school chief to take an assistant superintendent's job, currently had been paid $40,700 annually.

request might result in his termination".

Anderson said disciplinary actions at the animal pound were "not consistently applied" with regard to the severity of the offenses and that Block was not made aware of his probationary status and the conditions and responsibilities that might affect his job.

In the concluding statement of his opinion, Anderson said: "The personnel system for the City of Romulus in effect at the time of this case did not make adequate provisions for, nor safeguard, the rights of CETA enrollees."

He ruled that Block was to receive back pay from the time of his dismissal to the time that he would normally have been terminated as a CETA employee (18 months), whether because of the elimination of his job or the exhaustion of the program participation limits.

Anderson said unemployment compensation received by Block during such period would be deducted from the total amount of back pay.

Lowther Friday said Block was entitled to 15 months of back pay, since he had worked three months for the city before begin fired.

But, Lowther pointed out, Block had waited longer than the specified 6-week period to file a grievance. He said the city therefore is obligated only to pay him for six weeks and that CETA should pay the balance of the 15 months in pay.

Mrs. Spjut said Block's rate of pay was $12,338 per year. Fifteen months of compensation, minus the six weeks he claims is owed by the city, would leave a balance of about $14,000 still owed to Block, either by the city or CETA.

Lowther said the city is appealing Anderson's opinion on compensation. He said a hearing in the near future would determine who will pay the balance.

All-Stars scheduled to play

The Romulus Parks and Recreation Department will hold its inaugural girls softball All-Star softball game at Elmer Johnson Park on Thursday, Aug. 14.

The top-players from the Minor League are scheduled to take the field at 6 p.m., while the Major League game is scheduled for 7:45 p.m.

There will be an awards' ceremony proceeding the competitions, starting at 5 p.m.

In Brief

Persons interested in becoming a sports official for the 1981 season are urged to contact the Romulus Recreation Department.

Dennis Davidson, director, said clinics will be offered in volleyball, touch football, softball, basketball and other sports.

Referees are needed for the 1980 fall touch football season, he added.

The Romulus Recreation Department is recruiting 6-man teams for a "passing only" touch football league. No physical contact, except for a two-hand touch, will be involved. Men and women are asked to call the department for additional details.

St. Aloysius Parish of Romulus is sponsoring its annual Polka Festival Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day, Aug. 29-31 and Sept. 1, at the school. Highlight of the 4-day affair will be awarding of a $10,000 cash prize at 10 p.m. Monday.

Festival schedule includes: Friday—country western music from 7 to 11 p.m.; Saturday—"Polish Kid" and his polka band from Toledo from 7 to 11 p.m.; Sunday—a noon polka mass followed by Marshall Lackowski at 3 p.m. and the "Polka Towners" from Muskegon at 7 p.m.; Monday—"Holy Toledo Polka Stars" at 3 p.m. followed by Harold Mitas from Frankenmuth at 7 p.m.

A chicken dinner on Sunday and a spaghetti dinner on Monday will be served at noon in the school basement.

The 1980 Huron varsity football cheerleaders trip to the Dynamic Cheerleaders Association Camp at Northwood Institute in Midland July 21-24, was a successful one. They placed first in spirit and cheerleading skill and received a special blue ribbon for "Super-Squad" in team spirit, cooperation and dedication.

The squad members are Joyce Baschal, Michelle Brown, Crystal Deason, Charmion Dutton, Captain Jodie Dwyer, Sally Farrugia, Jill Richert, Angie Persichetti, Lisa Satneck and Kim Sturgill.

The cheerleaders coach is Doris LaBeau.

The annual rummage sale, held by the Huron Booster Club, will be Aug. 30, 31 and Sept. 1 in the Huron High School parking lot. The all day sale will feature furniture, clothing and household items. Last year the Boosters sold more than $1,800 dollars worth of donated items.

Anyone wishing to donate sale items can call Phil Baschal at 728-1291 or David Whitehouse at 654-6932 for pick up. All proceeds again will help support the athletic program at the Huron Schools. The Booster Club has recently donated money for football equipment and new uniforms for the football and basketball programs.

Last year, the club financially supported a ninth grade football team and the girls junior varsity basketball team.

Jim Deason, club president, announced that a 1952 Pirsch fire engine has been donated and also will be for sale.

Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley will be feted with a 50th birthday party to be given by friends and political supporters Saturday in the banquet room of the Romulus Holiday Inn.

Ron Hopson, chairman of the committee planning the party, said the cocktail party will include appetizers and dancing. He said the party will be from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Tickets will be $20 per person, he said. Additional information can be obtained by calling 941-1077.

Winning woodcarver

Joe Gaydos, a 21-year resident of Sumpter Township, was among the winners at the Livonia Wood Carvers Show Aug. 2-3. Gaydos, who lives on Martinsville Road, won a first place for his full figure animal, a third place for his animal head and a first place for the best display. He also was runner-up for best of show in the judging. Married and the father of three children, he was among 99 exhibitors on hand for the show.

According to Mahalak

Law sets up lifeline utility rate

A bill recently signed into law will establish a "lifeline" rate structure for electric companies, according to one western Wayne County state lawmaker.

Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District) said the law sets a basic needs block of power, at a lower rate, with additional blocks becoming more expensive as used.

The bill should prove beneficial for most consumers, since it has been estimated that as much as 75 percent of households will receive monthly cost reductions under the rate restructuring. The remaining household billings will be increased to pay for these savings. These would be the households which use large amounts of energy. However, in most cases, the increase would be comparatively minor.

The lifeline rate structure also will encourage the conservation of energy Mahalak said.

The change will not take effect immediately. The new law requires the Michigan Public Service Commission to develop and order the restructuring of rates. The restructuring, to be completed within one year, will provide for an adequate amount of energy for basic household needs at a lowered cost, with further economic incentives provided to encourage the conservation of energy.

The restructuring would be independent of any pending rate increase or reduction cases before the Public Service Commission and would initially maintain, to a practicable degree, each affected utility's residential revenues at a level collected immediately before the restructuring.

The legislation requires a periodic review and evaluation by the PSC, and provides for a reduction in rates in proportion to any cost savings resulting from energy conservation, where applicable.

In rate restructuring, the PSC is to establish two categories for residential customers; one based on two or fewer residents subject to a single electric billing, and a second category based on three or more such customers.

A lifeline block (that required to meet basic household needs) would be established for each category of customers which would be the first block of energy usage.

The number of kilowatt hours per month in a lifeline block for the first category of customers could not be less than 350 kilowatt hours (KWH), and not less than 500 KWH for the second category.

The PSC will establish a number of additional blocks of electricity usage behond the lifeline blocks, of which the number of KWH per month in the second block could not be less than 250 KWH for the first category and not less than 300 KWH for the second category of customers.

"The legislation represents a compromise agreed upon by industry and consumer interests and the PSC which give the commission specific guidelines for establishing a lifeline rate structure for large electric utilities," Mahalak said. "These guidelines would help to ensure that the two major goals of such restructuring would be accomplished. Energy for essential residential needs will be made available at a reasonable rate, and energy conservation would be strongly encouraged through increased cost of additional usage of electricity.

"Low income households, such as senior citizens, generally use less electricity than others, but they pay the same rates. It is estimated that the new law will lower electricity charges for at least 85 percent of the low income households in the state, he said.

In recent years, due to the increasing scarcity and cost of energy, the need for utility rate reform has become an important concern, both to the federal and state governments.

In 1978, the federal government passed the Public Utilities Regulatory Policies Act, which allows state public service commissions to investigate the advisability of rate restructuring along the lines of what has come to be known as a "lifeline" rate structure.

Under such an apporach, fixed rates are set for various blocks of residential energy usage, the first of which per month is the "lifeline block," which is an amount of energy considered sufficient to meet basic household needs. Energy usage beyond that specified as the lifeline block is progressively more expensive.

"The new state law follows through on this federal law. It provides the Public Service Commission with the legal status and guidelines which will enable it to effectively establish a lifeline rate structure for Michigan," Mahalak concluded.

Ruling expands residency requirement for VN bonus

Due to a recent federal court ruling, expanding the residency eligibility for the Michigan Vietnam Era bonus, an undetermined number of veterans may now qualify, if they meet three conditions.

According to spokeperson for the State Department of Military Affairs, veterans must have entered the military service as a citizen of a state other than Michigan, became a resident of Michigan for at least six months after Jan. 1, 1961, while the service, and completed 190 days of honorable service between Jan. 1961 and Sept. 1, 1973, while a resident of Michigan.

The statute governing the bonus originally required Michigan residency prior to enlistment. However, the ruling by U.S. District Judge Noel P. Fox opens the bonus program to veterans who enlisted from other states, but while in the service came to Michigan, established residency (for a minimum of six months) and then met the other service requirements—namely a minimum 190 days of honorable service between Jan. 1, 1961 and Sept. 1, 1973.

In accordance with the other of the district court. Sept. 30, 1980, for only those veterans who meet the new eligibilty conditions and who have never applied previously for the Michigan Vietnam Era bonus. Beneficiaries may apply on behalf of a deceased veteran.

This court ruling does not extend the original June 30, 1980 statutory deadline for those veterans who were eligible under the original bonus program, the spokesperson said.

The Vietnam Bonus Section also will review all previous claims disallowed on residency grounds in order to determine if the former applicants would now be eligible. Those persons suspected as eligible to receive the bonus will be notified in writing by letter to the claimant's last known address. Veterans in this category should notify the Bonus Section, if they have moved since filing their pervious claim, the spokesperson added.

Inquiries and requests for application should be directed to the Vietnam Bonus Section, Department of Military Affairs, 2500 S. Washington, Lansing 48913. The telephone number is (517) 373-7320.

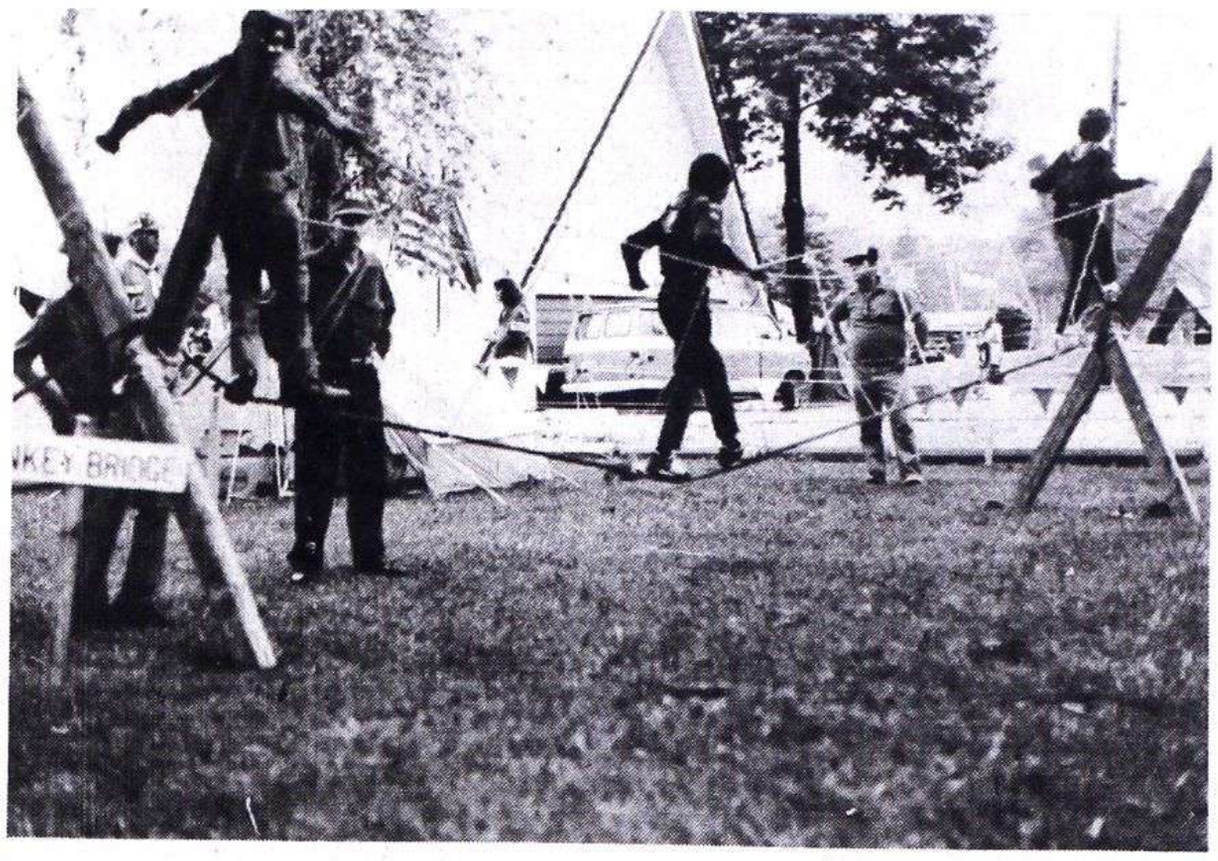
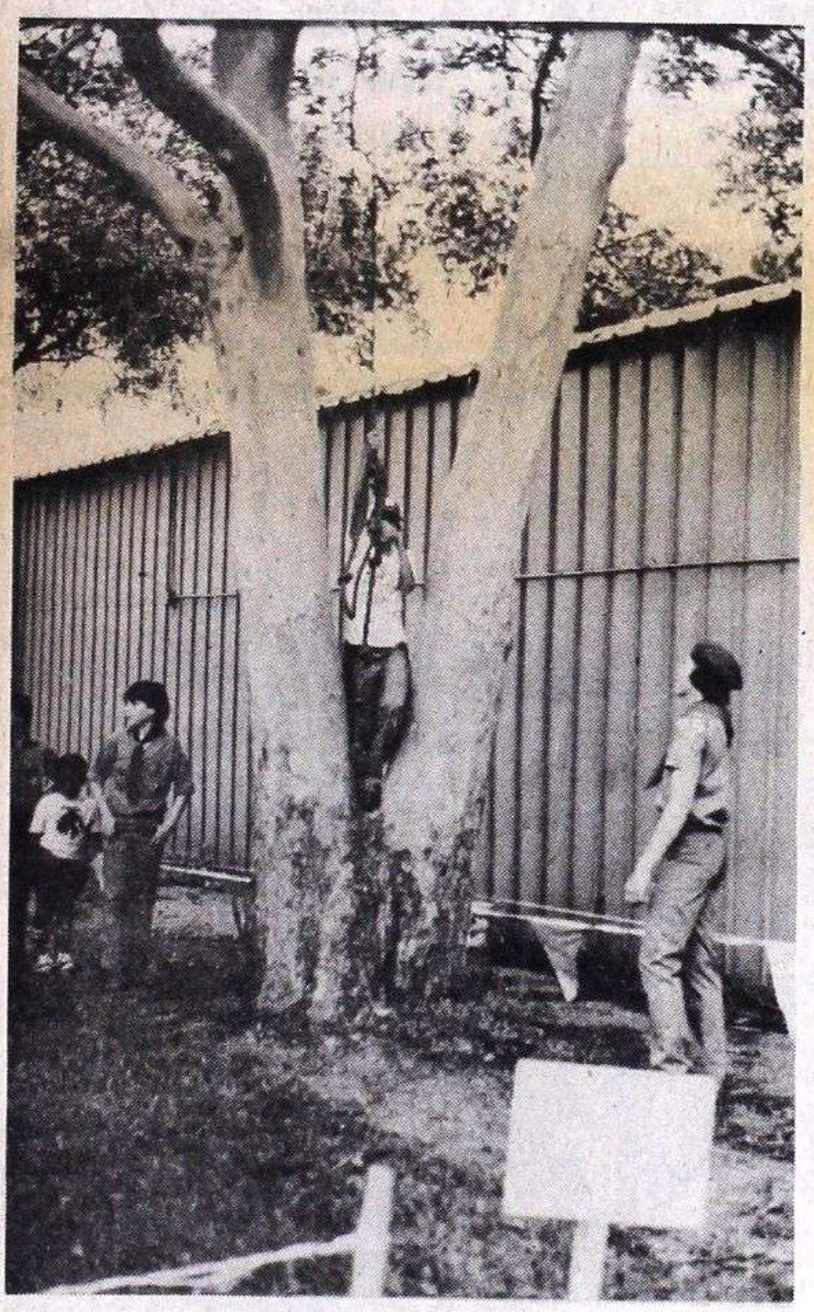
Test of skills

Scouts in the Detroit Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America recently gathered for Youth Expo '80 at the State Fairgrounds in Detroit, testing their skills at a variety of projects. Attending were members of Boy Scout Troop 739 of Merriman Elementary School. Tackling the physical fitness obstacle course, the young Scouts skills were tested on a monkey bridge (at left), tree swing and narrow beam among others. The troop is lead by Robert Metevia.





Food stamps available

Some persons applying for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and some SSI recipients now are able to file stamp applications at Social Security Administration (SSA) office.

All food stamp applications must be filed at a local Department of Social Services (DSS) office.

The change, dictated by new federal food stamp regulations, is intended to make it easier for some SSI applicants and some recipients to obtain food stamps. The service will be available to households in which all members are applying for, or are receiving, SSI benefits. They may, however, still apply for food stamps at their local DSS Office.

SSI households which already are receiving food stamps will not be able to use this service. When their food stamp certification period ends, they must re-apply at their local DSS office.

Persons having questions about this change or who would like more information should call their local DSS or SSA office.

At farewell luncheon

Sandra Lee Tencza, executive director of the Michigan Medical Schools Council of Deans, included a special farewell luncheon for Robert D. Coye, M.D., outgoing dean of Wayne State University School of Medicine at their June meeting. Dr. Coye has been dean since 1972 and will return to research and teaching of his speciality, pathology, at Johns Hopkins. The Council of Deans is a consortium of the four medical schools in the state of Michigan allowing communication of mutual concerns on medical education issues between the schools. At the luncheon were Miss Tencza, acting executive director, Michigan Medical Schools Council of Deans (front row, from left): Dr. Robert D. Coye, outgoing dean at Wayne State University School of Medicine; Dr. Myron S. Magen, dean, Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine; Dr. Thomas J. Herrmann, associate dean, University of Michigan Medical School; Roger Spry, (back row, from left) assistant dean for admissions at Wayne State University School of Medicine; Dr. W. Donald Weston, dean, Michigan State University College of Human Medicine; Dr. Lawrence M. Weiner, deputy dean, Wayne State University School of Medicine; Ronald LaPense, administrative fellow, University of Michigan Medical School; and James G. Lyons, associate dean, Michigan State University College of Human Medicine.

DOC gets $1 million grant for experimental project

The Downriver Community Conference (DCC), a CETA program agent in Wayne County, has been awarded a $1 million grant, according to U.S. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall.

This program is the first of a number of proposed experimental assistance projects, announced by President Carter in Detroit on July 8 to help dislocated workers. The grant will enable the DCC to expand the first phase of a program to provide training and other employment services to about 1,000 permanently laid-off auto (both assembly and parts) and chemical workers in the area.

The initiation of additional pilot projects and further expansion of the DCC project will be undertaken in fiscal year 1981 and fiscal year 1982 when the funds become available.

Many workers are losing long-term jobs for the first time, because of growing internationalization of the U.S. economy, technology advances, higher energy prices, and environmental pressures and regulations. While these structural changes can ultimately increase the productivity, incomes and well-being of the economy as a whole, severe burdens are borne by the laid-off workers and the communities in which they live, Marshall said.

Various forms of income maintenance benefits are available to such workers but income maintenance is not enough, Marshall added. A policy is needed which promotes the early return to work of experienced, displaced workers to productive jobs.

The proposed pilot projects will provide training and other employment services to experienced workers facing permanent layoff, so that they can better meet the new demands of an economy undergoing major structural changes.

The Downriver project will serve as a pretest for the proposed pilot projects. The Downriver communities are severely affected by auto and other manufacturing layoffs. Two major employers, one an independent auto supplier and the other a chemical firm, have permanently shut down their plants, idling 1,800 workers. In addition, two auto plants have placed 3,500 employees on indefinite layoff. The DCC responded to this major problem by proposing and partially funding an innovative adjustment assistance program, including counseling, job-search workshops, training and relocation assistance.

The grant should enable the DCC to assist many of the workers in the community. The Secretary believes the Downriver project will provide a valuable operational model for the Administration's plans for dealing with worker dislocation problems.

'Good Roads' Earle: Got state on right highway

They called him "Good Roads" Earle, and he loved it. He was a flamboyant little man, caustic outgoing, aggressive, with crossed eyes which he said gave him the power "to look at things other people don't see."

He was Michigan's first state highway commissioner and legitimately described himself as the father of Michigan's huge network of modern roads and highways.

When Gov. Fred Warner signed a bill creating the Michigan State Highway Department in the summer of 1905, his first and logical choice to head the new agency was Horatio S. Earle of Detroit.

Earle had just finished a 2-year stint as Michigan's "unconstitutional" highway commissioner, without pay or official title. He had been appointed to the job in 1903, but the attorney general declared that the law in conflict with the state constitution.

Earle, undeterred, began a statewide campaign to amend the constitution so the state could pay "reward" money to counties and townships which improved their roads. In two years he visited nearly every city and village in the state, spoke at county fairs, called on newspaper editors, addressed civic and farm groups, wrote countless letters.

Opponents resisted him at every turn. They heckled him from audiences, occasionally hired drunks to disrupt meetings on at least one occasion paid people a dollar apiece to stay home on the night Earle came to town.

Not everybody wanted good roads in those days. Farmers, especially, feared that more roads would increase their property taxes, chiefly for the benefit of dispised "automobilists." They thought existing roads of sand and clay should be kept intact for movement of their porducts to market, not for joyrides by the owners of noisy motorcars which frightened their livestock and disturbed the serenity of their rural households.

The good-roads forces prevailed. In the spring of 1905, voters in all 83 counties approved an amendment authorizing state spending for roads. Legislation enacted a few weeks later allocated $20,000 for the first year and $50,000 for the second year as state rewards for local roads built or improved to minimum specifications. State payments of $250 to $1,000 a mile typically paid about one fourth of the total cost.

In that year, there were 2,958 automobiles registered in Michigan, a state with a population of 2.6 million. Today, auto registrations number 5.2 million and trucks more than a million.

Automobilists in the early years of the century had a choice of bad roads and worse. Even in the larger towns most were in bad shape. In rural areas, except where there was a lakeport or a railroad depot, roads were mud tracks in wet weather, dust bins in dry. Railroads and newly conceived systems of electrified rail cars known as "interurbans" carried passengers from town to town. Streetcars furnished public transportation in the cities.

The best available records indicate there were 68,000 miles of roads in the state in 1905. Fewer than 8,000 were improved — 7,700 with gravel and 245 with macadam, a technique that employed layers of crushed stone. Today's highway, road and street network adds up to nearly 117,000 miles, including 1,700 miles of freeways in a 9,450-mile state highway system all paved with concrete or asphalt.

When Earle took office, the highway department set up shop in the office of the Speaker of the House in the State Capitol. Its operating budget of $10,000 a year paid for a staff of five, including Earle. His deputy was Frank F. Rogers, an engineer from Port Huron who had worked diligently at his side in the campaign to legalize a state reward law. Rogers in 1913 became Michigan's first elected highway commissioner and served until 1929.

Earle was drawn into the good-roads movement before 1900, as a bicycle enthusiast. Cycling was a national craze, and he and other members of the League of American Wheelmen fought for better roads and streets and the rights of bicyclists to use them without interference from horse-drawn vehicles.

As chief counsul of the Michigan division of the league, Earle brought the first International Road Congress to Port Huron in 1900, an event that drew hundreds of good-roads advocates from throughout the country. For the main event, Earle hitched together the first good-roads train ever assembled — a traction engine, road roller,

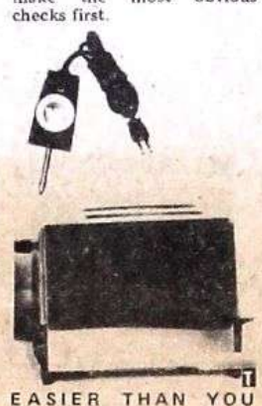
HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS
Fix It Yourself For Safety & Economy

REPAIRING SMALL APPLIANCES

It makes you feel good, it will save you money and, once you gain a little experience, you'll find that fixing small appliances around the house can be surprisingly easy.

All you have to do is remember that when trying to pinpoint the cause of a malfunction in an appliance, make the most obvious checks first.



EASIER THAN YOU THINK—Gaining just a little experience can make repairing home appliances simpler.

For example, if you think the power cord is broken on your electric blanket here's a good test:

Unplug the cord and examine it for fraying; then examine the plug for loose or distorted prongs. Remove the back cover of control unit and attach jumper wire across power cord leads inside unit. Set volt-ohm meter to RX1 scale and clip its probes to terminals of control cord plug. Bend and pull cord. If cord is okay, meter will read zero ohms; if bad, needle will jump or read high.

This is just one of many tests for small appliances found in a new book compiled by the editors of Reader's Digest with the help of experts in every field. The "Fix-It-Yourself Manual," available in bookstores, gives step-by-step instructions in a clear, easy-to-follow manner that allows you to save time, money and unnecessary work on the 1,001 things that can go wrong around your house.

At state's airports

Fly, skydive, or just soar

On your next trip to the airport, relax and watch the planes life off, take flying lessons or try skydiving, aerobatics or soaring.

At Bishop International Airport in Flint, you can watch planes from an outside observation deck for a dime or from the old FAA tower for a quarter. The tower has an added attration—loudspeakers broadcast radio conversations between pilots and airport controllers.

There is a 10-cent admission fee for the observation deck at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus. The airport restaurants also offer excellent views of jumbo jets.

Admission to the observation deck at Detroit City Airport is free, and hungry travelers can grab a bite at Sonny's Weather Station while watching the local air traffic.

Kent County International Airport in Grand Rapids offers both an observation deck with coin-operated telescoped and a viewing area across from the terminal, complete with parking space, picnic tables and a popcorn wagon on summer weekends.

The Grand Rapids airport also boasts a restaurant with a view of the air traffic and it is named appropriately the Golden Eagle.

For more of the same, try the Red Baron CAfeteria at Emmet County Airport in Pellston; the Kittyhawk Restaurant at W.K Kellogg Regional Airport, Battle Creek; West Airport Inn at Branch County Memorial Airport, Coldwater; Murphy's Sky Room at Jackson County-Reynolds Field, Jackson; the Prop-Stop at Kirsch Municipal Airport, Sturgis, and the Meridian at Oakland-Pontiac Airport, Pontiac.

The Meridian is located inside the terminal of what bills itself Michigan's busiest airport, and it is not unusual to see planes taxi up to within 30 feet of the restaurant's big glass windows. If "Cuban 8s," "vertical rolls" and "hammerhead turns" are what you're after, then you should enroll in one of the two aerobatics schools available at the Pontiac airport.

"Sample Flying" is what lessons are called at Jackson. Certified Flight Inc. (517-784-9134) offers a "Mini Sample"—a 10-minute introduction ride—at $7.50.

Parachuting or skydiving lessons are given at Al Meyers Airport in Tecumseh. The Tecumseh Parachuting Service (517-423-7720 or 423-9997) takes more than 300 people up each weekend, and the jumps go on from dawn to dusk.

Glider rides are available on weekends at the Frankfort City-County Airport in Frankfort, site of the Naitonal Soaring Festival. You join a pilot aboard a motorless craft which is pulled into the air by another airplane or winch, then released to soar gracefully over the countryside with only the sound of the wind in your ears.

A 15-minute "introductory" flight costs $20 and is offered weekends in good weather. For information, call (616) 352-7623.

Abrams Municipal Airport at Grand League is the place to go to watch helicopters. The Michigan Army National Guard holds drills on weekends and usually every Wednesday and Friday evenings.

The giant glass windows in the Muskegon County Airport terminal near Muskegon offer glimpses of passenger planes being prepared for takeoff.

Plane-watchers at Cherry Capitol Airport in Traverse City can enjoy refreshments at the Sun Catcher Lounge while practicing their favorite pastime or—in summer—sit out on the patio as the planes go overhead.

JOANNE BANAS

After extensive training in travel-tourism, Joanne Banas of New Boston, Michigan is a July graduate of Southeastern Academy. She received the Certificate of Excellence for an overall grade average of 96 percent or above. To complete the program of study she met requirements in the areas of career and personal development in addition to specialized occupational training. She now is qualified for an entry-level position in all areas of the airline, travel or tourism industry.

Village hosts harvest fest

Foot-stomping bluegrass, stylish old cars and a harvest festival are just a few of the special events coming soon at historic Greenfield Village.

The village will hold its first Bluegrass Festival Saturday and Sunday. The festival will feature several well known bluegrass groups and mountain crafts. The festival will include a history of bluegrass on Saturday and gospel music on Sunday morning.

The popular Old Car Festival Sept. 6-7 will feature more than 250 cars from the 1890s to 1926 with drivers in motoring attire of the period. Parades, high-wheel bicycles and Dixieland music will add to the fun.

Activities continue with an Autumn Harvest Weekend on Oct. 3-5. The traditional rural harvest celebration celebration will include square dancing, tractor pulls, antique threshing machine demonstrations, special crafts and engine demonstrations by the Early Engine Club.

The Ford Motor Company tour of the Rouge Plant has been closed indefinitely but Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum remain open year-round. The village and museum are across the road from the plant tour welcome area, but are connected with the tour, the Ford Motor Company or the Ford Foundation.

4 area collegians receive EMU's Excellence Award

Four Belleville-Romulus collegians have been named recipients of Eastern Michigan University's prestigious Recognition of Excellence Award.

The $850 scholarship is awarded to the top student applicant from each Michigan high school and community college. To qualify the students had to have a 3.5 grade point average or demonstrated leadership ability.

The award winners included Steve Gomes, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Gomes of Ecorse Road, Belleville; Jennifer Morris, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morris of Bemis Road, Belleville; Theresa Szuma, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphone Szuma of Martinsville Road, Belleville; and Mark C. Sullivan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan of Dorset, Romulus.

Also on the College Scene:

Among the 2,800 Students who participated in summer orientation at Western Michigan University were Dennis Lorbeske and Mary Renke of Romulus.

The duo spent three days on the college's Kalamazoo campus, living in residence halls and eating in student dining rooms. While at WMU, they met with academic advisors, took placement tests and registered for classes.

They will be freshman students at WMU this fall.

Among the 3,449 candidates for degrees at Wayne State University's commencement exercises recently were Maria Hernandez of Belle Villa, master of business administration; Barbara Higgins of I-94 Service Drive, master of education; and Alvery Pack of Sharon Court, bachelor of general studies.

HOW DO I SAY GOOD-BYE TO A FRIEND?

The terminally-ill person and the friend of that terminally-ill person often find themselves trying to comfort each other while dealing with their own sadness and fears.

Many find consolation in their religious beliefs. Clergymen are helpful and we encourage you to turn to them so they may help the person as well as his loved ones regard death in a more positive way.

Each of us must learn to face dying or the loss of a loved one with courage, even when we cannot understand it.

When Socrates, the Greek Philosopher, was condemned to death, he was able to say "good-bye" to his friends with faith and sincerity.

"Now it is time that we were going, I to die and you to live; but which of us has the happier prospect is unknown to anyone but God."

For amore thorough understanding of facing death may we suggest a book by B.G. Glaser and A.L. Strauss called, Awareness of Dying. Please call or write us if you would like more information on this topic.

Of federal aid for storm victims

Congressmen seek explanation for FEMA rejection

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) is being asked to thoroughly explain its decision not to award disaster assistance to a 10-county area of the State of Michigan after severe thunderstorms did an estimated $177.3 million in damages on July 15, 16 and 20.

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) and Congressman John Dingell (D-16th District) have asked for a detailed explanation of the reasons why the FEMA recommended that Gov. William Milliken's request for federal assistance be denied.

The congressmen are asking for the explanation in light of approval of federal assistance for the State of Wisconsin, which sustained damages from the same storm that affected southeastern Michigan.

They have directed six questions to the FEMA, which will clarify the decision rendered by that agency and the President.

The questions include whether or not the governor's request for assistance under the Disaster Relief Act of 1974 were complete and appropriate, whether he complied with the statutory requirements of Public Law 92-288, and on what date the FEMA initiated an assessment of the damage caused by the storm.

The congressmen also are asking for answers to:

—How many FEMA personnel were utilized in assessing the damage in the affected areas of the state and how much time was involved in making the final determination;

—What criteria does Public Law 93-288 require FEMA to utilize in making a recommendation to the President relative to whether or not a declaration is warranted;

—What criteria specifically was used in assessing whether or not the 10-county area qualified for federal assistance under the law; and

—What particular factors were taken into consideration on the FEMA recommendation to the President that he not declare a state of emergency in those areas of the state.

"Our communities have suffered widespread physical and financial damages as a result of the devastating storms...It is therefore essential that we receive a full explanation of why the federal government cannot provide disaster assistance under the circumstances, particularly in light of the fact that the State of Wisconsin received favorable consideration," the congressman said in a letter to the REMA director, James W. Wahner.

'Good Roads' Earle:

sprinkler, dump wagons and farm wagons. They carried the delegates to a newly laid, one-mile stretch of macadam road, built as an "object lesson" to show what ought to be done nationwide. Earle became president of the league two years later.

Later, when bicycling began to wane, he became the main founder of the American Road Makers Association, the forerunner of today's national and state organizations of highway contractors and others in the construction industry. In 1902, Earle was elected to the State Senate from Detroit, campaigning as a good-roads advocate. Once in the legislature, he contrived to promote better roads in nearly every speech he gave.

Earle's ideas were a mirror of future road progress. He advocated use of trained civil engineers to plan and supervise construction of roads and used his state office and the state reward system to encourage local officials to do the job professionally and well. In 1905, he persuaded the legislature to abolish the ancient and highly inefficient statute labor system for road improvements. It allowed a farmer and a team of horses to work out in a day or two his share of local road taxes.

In its place, the legislature enacted a much more productive cash tax system. The ceiling was set at 50 cents per $100 of assessed property value and the revenue could be used only for permanent road improvements, not maintenance.

Earle predicted counties and cities and the state, even the federal government, eventually would cooperate to build good highways and connecting roads. He was the first to urge a state-wide system of roads, not just farm-to-market, hit-and-miss roads that ignored cross-country traffic.

He also played a key role in construction of the world's first full mile of rural concrete highway. It was built in 1909 by the new Wayne County Road Commission on Woodward Avenue in Detroit between Six-Mile Road and Seven-Mile Road, a 17-foot 8-inch wide marvel that drew observers from all over the world. It cost $13,537.39.

Earle left office in 1909. His successor, by appointment of Gov. Warner, was Townsend Ely, a retired farmer and former state senator form Alma. Earle had crossed swords with Warner several times and had even run against him for governor in the Republican primary election of 1908.

In a report submitted to the legislature at the end of his term, Earle wrote: "No other state in the same length of time has ever made such strides in good road-building as has Michigan, and for this I am proud."

The horseshoe crab is thought to be virtually unchanged from its form 300 million years ago.

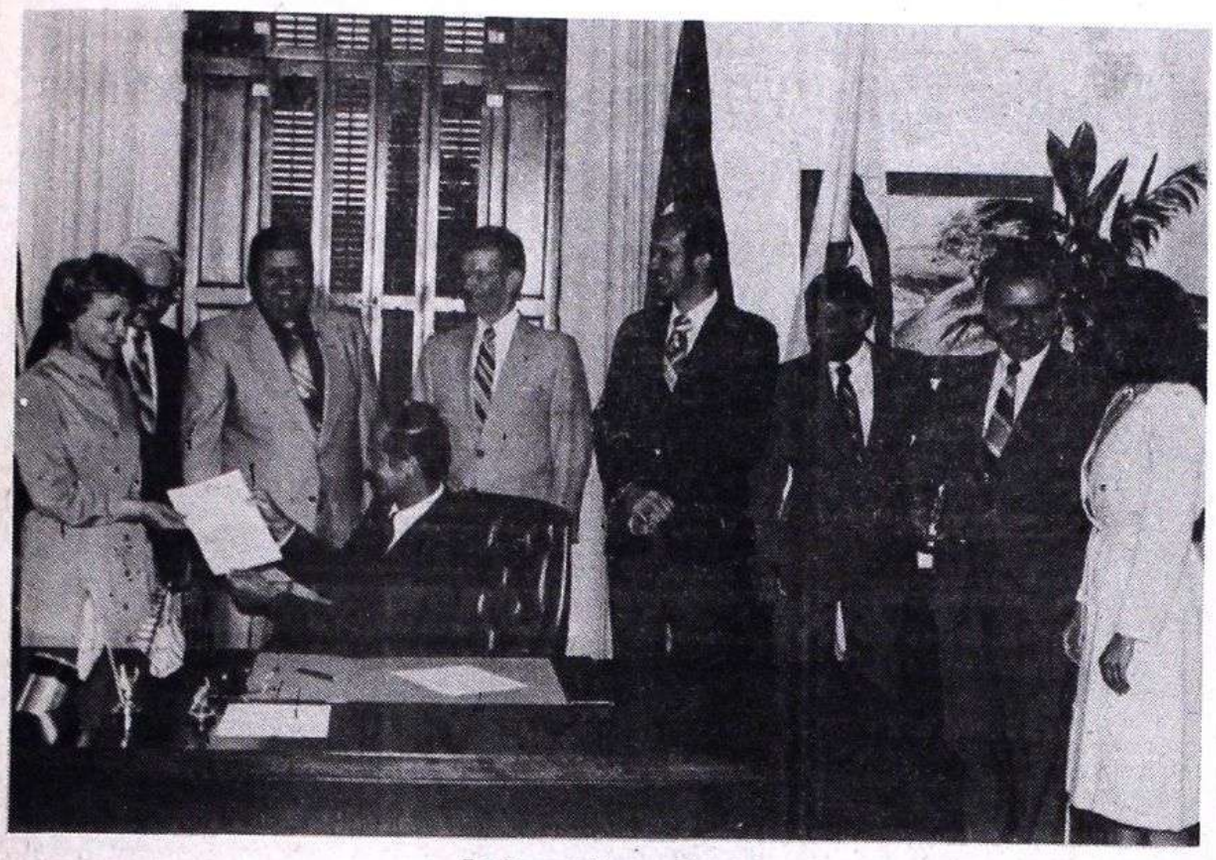
Law cuts off welfare to those who refuse to work



It's the law

Gov. William Milliken (seated) hands a just-signed bill to one of its major co-sponsors, State Rep. Sylvia Skrel (R-Livonia, Westland), last Tuesday in Lansing. The measure, a major welfare reform effort, is expected to save the state about $16 million a year by denying public assistance money for three months to welfare recipients who turn down employment opportunities or refuse to work on community work relief and work training projects. In addition to Mrs. Skrel and the Governor, also pictured are (left to right) Republican State Reps. "Abe" Lincoln of Albion, Carl Gnodtke of Sawyer, Lad Stacey of Berrien Springs, Donald Van Singel of Grant and Ralph Ostling of Roscommon. Next to Ostling is state Department of Social Services Director Dr. John Demsey, and House Republican staffer Lynn Weimeister, who initiates and tracks legislation related to social services matters.

A major welfare reform bill ended its speedy journey through the legislative process July 29 when Gov. William Milliken signed it into law.

The measure, co-sponsored by State Rep. Sylvia Skrel (R-Livonia, Westland), will deny public assistance money for three months to welfare recipients who turn down employment opportunities, or refuse to work on community work relief and work training projects. The legislation is included in Governor Milliken's recommendations for cutting $97 million out of the remainder of this year's fiscal budget.

First introduced in early April, the legislation was passed by both houses of the legislature and both House and Senate committees in just three months, an unusually swift approval process.

The bill, expected to save the state about $16 million a year, will apply only to General Assistance recipients, a group overwhelmingly comprised of single individuals.

Mrs. Skrel said she is "especially pleased" that the bill was rushed through the legislature because the majority of her constituents who responded to a recently-returned questionnaire indicated overwhelming support for cutting welfare costs.

A question asked respondents to rank seven programs which could be cut to balance the state's budget. More respondents preferred trimming state funds for welfare than cutting funds from any other program.

The bill will eliminate welfare recipients from the state's welfare rolls, if they refuse to accept available employment "for which wages paid are not less than the usual rate paid by that employer for the particular kind of employment being offered." The recipient would be ineligible for public assistance for three months from the date his or her case was terminated by the State Department of Social Services.

After the 3-month ineligibility period, persons could re-apply for relief.

Presently, recipients refusing to join a work project are cut off from assistance for 30 days, although there is no state statute penalizing welfare recipients who refuse to work, or accept employment.

Mrs. Skrel noted that there has been a trend towards closing more General Assistance cases of persons turning down work in recent months. She pointed out that a Department of Social Services survey for the first four months of 1980 showed that about 900 cases a month were being terminated for 30 days because of a failure to comply with the guidelines for receiving assistance.

In May, Mrs. Skrel said, about 3,500 cases were closed. If the trend continues, she said, the state could save about double the $8 million which was first anticipated.

Know your law

(This is one in a series of public service articles explaining in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law on their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

By ATT. GEN. FRANK KELLEY

In 1975, the Michigan State Legislature enacted a statute authorizing a judge or jury to find a criminal defendant "guilty but mentally ill." This, in effect, provides an alternative determination by a judge or jury (the fact finder) regarding a defendant who committed a criminal act, but whose mental condition is brought into question.

Prior to the enactment of the law, a fact finder had only two options in such a situation—find the defendant was sane at the time of the offense and therefore guilty, or find the defendant was legally insane at the time of the offense and, therefore, not guilty by reason of insanity.

A person is considered legally insane if, as a result of mental illness or mental retardation, he or she is either unable to understand that their conduct is wrong or conform their conduct to the requirements of the law.

A defendant, found not guilty by reason of insantiy, must according to the law, be released from detention once it is determined that they are no longer dangerous to themselves or others.

A guilty, but mentally ill verdict, is a decision by the fact finder that the defendant did not meet the legal definition of insanity, but was nevertheless mentally ill at the time of the offense. Upon such a finding, the judge retains the same sentencing powers as in the case of a general guilty verdict.

If the judge sentences the defendant to prison, psychiatric treatment must be given for this mental illness by the Department of Corrections or the Department of Mental Health. However, the defendant is required to serve out his sentence regardless of when or if their mental illness is cured.

Thank You
...for your support in the primary election. Your votes were very gratifying.

Clerk was hasty, so was council

Last week Romulus City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar was stripped of his supervision of the city's urban renewal program by action of City Council.

As we understand the facts, Folmar consented to take over the clerical and other duties associated with the urban renewal program back in 1976 when asked to do so by council.

In recent weeks, however, a breach has developed between Folmar and council, possibly even with the mayor's office. It now appears that the council is unhappy with the exercise of too much authority by Folmar.

On July 29, Folmar took a truck out of the city's DPW garage on his own volition to be used in cleanup operations of the urban renewal area where the storm of July 16 had left widespread debris.

That apparently was the straw that broke the camel's back as far as council was concerned. Council members swiftly passed a motion, introduced by Jimmie Raspberry, that transferred the entire urban renewal program to Patrick Hogan, the city's community development director and grants coordinator.

Folmar understandably was concerned, but took the council action gracefully. He said he will discuss the situation with Mayor William M. Oakley and will proceed from that point, depending upon what the mayor has to say.

We do not condone Folmar's hasty action in taking the truck. But, if his comments that little was being done to pick up the debris in the urban renewal area almost two weeks after the storm struck, is true, then we can understand and appreciate his concern.

By his own admission, the clerk acted impulsively and as matters turned out, he suffered the consequences. That is now water over the dam.

The clerk said that he knows that not only the urban renewal area, but other sections of Romulus were still littered with storm debris. But he said he could not understand why so many DPW trucks were in the garage on the day he picked up the truck.

If that is true, we do not understand it either. His comments coincide with some rumblings by city officials and townspeople following the storm that Romulus was lagging in its cleanup operations.

The mayor more than a week later explained that DPW crews had worked diligently to make all city streets passable by 4 p.m. the day of the storm.

That is commendable. But another elected official, the clerk, as late as last week was saying that much of the community is still covered with storm debris.

Perhaps, it would behoove the City Council to investigate that matter throughly and, if true, to take the same swift action it took to take the urban renewal program away from Folmar.

Bald Eagle speaks

Why elections are won

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Watergate. The Billy Carter affair. The infamous Teapot Dome scandal. City Sand & Landfill in Sumpter Township. Public fishing near bridges in Van Buren Township.

You name it. Whether nationally on a large scope or locally on a smaller scale, controversial issues often decide the outcome of elections.

In Sumpter, the demise of Democrat Sup. Robert K. Demski is being attributed by political pundits to his support of the City Sand & Landfill, a local landfill, and his reported acceptance of political contributions, bonafide though they were.

Denounced by some nearby residents, the landfill and the controversy swirling around it also helped bring down with it the political careers of all four incumbent township board trustees in Sumpter.

Although not spelled out for public consumption, in Huron Township a treasurer, who resigned recently for personal reasons, won the Democratic nomination for supervisor of a veteran board trustee by a slight margin.

Evidently, the electorate in Huron felt that former Treasurer Richard F. Sullivan had performed well as watcher of township finances, had good reasons for quitting, and would do a good job as their supervisor if he wins in the fall election.

In Van Buren, it was a different story.

Recent controversy over fishing and other activities at or near three lake bridges, and more recent protests over odors and other nuisances from a township landfill evidently had little, if any, influence in last week's primary election.

It was evident that Sup. Pat Cullin and others on the board favored public fishing and felt the majority of township residents shared their beliefs. Yet, the outcome of separate advisory questions on voters' wishes at the three bridges proved 2-1 that they did not want fishing and other activities, namely, loitering, swimming and parking.

Action on complaints by some 20 residents of a subdivision next to the landfill in Van Buren, although not opposed by Cullin and the township board, was temporarily delayed until inspection by county and state agencies.

But, when the vote was in, Cullin proved to be the highest vote getter as the unopposed Democrat supervisor nominee candidate and three of the four Democrat board trustees won their bids to run in the fall.

The case in Van Buren is the exception to the rule. In most instances, when controversies involve enough people, they can and often do sway the outcome of elections.

As proponents of the democratic form of government are quick to point out, the "will of the majority" has spoken and will be served.

Too often, controversies are drummed up almost on the spur of the moment and used as "political footballs" in attempts to influence results of an election.

Then, it is up to the electorate, in its wisdom, to decide whether these controversies are real or phony and to vote accordingly.

Regardless of controversies, sometimes the number of voters who go to the polls is the determining factor in an election. Should the majority of voters be those who favor one side or other of a particular controversy, then that faction will emerge victorious.

But, if a very large group of residents turn out on election day, supporters of one side or other of a specific controversy can have their wishes thwarted by the sheer weight of numbers.

Whatever the situation, elections are won and lost because voters go to the polls. The bigger the number, the greater chance of achieving the will of the majority.

'Wright on!'

By TOM MOORADIAN
Acting Managing Editor

I don't know Howard Wright. But I have — and probably you also have — seen him many times. Usually at night. You may have been one of those who quickly rushed to your telephone and yelled "There's a UFO" in the sky, and the officer on the other end of the line probably signed. "Yah. Put the bottle, down, Mack. And tell me about it."

If the telephone caller had known of or about Howard Wright, he probably would not have picked up the phone. You see, Wright creates illusions in the sky. From afar, they may look like UFOs.

"With a name like Wright, I had to become a pilot," says the Inkster resident with a twinkle in his voice. "I've always wanted to fly. Even as a kid. And I'm doing it."

What Wright and his Cesna 152 — it's a two-seater — do is soar in the air, and through a complicated computer-lighting system, flash back signs of cheer and love. You probably saw him during the recent GOP Convention — the message was, "Welcome GOP to Motor City".

On Aug. 27th Howard says his Cesna will be wishing someone a "Happy Birthday", so if your birthday is on that day, look, skyward, and maybe your loved one will try to tell you something.

The cost for an hour commercial, $350.

Wright grew up in St. Clair Shores, lived in Belleville for a few years, then finally wound up in Inkster. His marriage of three years is on the rocks and he's decided to return to St. Clair Shores.

He created his company — "Aero Ad" — "because I felt there was a need for something like this. I'm a commercial pilot and I know there is a market for this product."

The 30-year-old pilot tried to explain how all those flashing lights on his plane work, how the message gets across the wingspan — but it really didn't sink in. All I can say is that there is some sort of filter tape that has a lot of holes which feeds into a computer, and the computer does its thing.

"It's basic, but it's also a complicated system," said Wright. "The computer is in the second cockpit, so I'm up there by myself.

"Sometimes I can slow the plane down to around 40 knots and even the bikes pass me by." Wright continued. "so some people who see me from a distance may believe it's some sort of lighted craft just hanging in air."

An illusion?

"You can say that — but, believe me, I'm on the radar screen and everything is well controlled."

If you do see a lot of lights up in the sky one night and a craft hovering just above the tree tops — don't get that doomed feeling — just read the message.

It could be wishing you a "Happy Birthday."

Local governments, schools aid needy children

by Bernard E. Hillenbrand

From Gloucester County, Va., to School District Number 12 in Adams County, Colo., some of the nation's needy children are receiving health care, social services or recreation through community education programs in schools.

These counties are but two examples of local governments that have joined with school boards to develop comprehensive "one-stop" shopping centers for community services.

The idea has tremendous potential, particularly for areas where health care is not available. Ten million American children under 16 have inadequate medical care and half the children under 15 have never seen a dentist. But there are only 3,104 county governments in the United States. There are 16,000 school districts. The National Continuing Education Association says a mere 700 have community education programs.

According to Donna Webb, coordinator of the Gloucester project, the most beneficial aspect of their program has been coordination of services to avoid duplication. Nationally, the effort has yielded a number of other advantages as well:

— In some counties social service programs proliferate, yet many citizens feel alienated when trying to get help. About 1600 counties run their own health departments. Most of these also operate welfare, recreation, elderly, special education and nutrition programs.

Though each is autonomous, they tend to have four things in common: problems, services, clients and the county tax dollar. It is tragic that millions of Americans, faced with this perplexing maze, never receive any assistance. Simply stated, housing other services in schools makes them more accessible because there is a school in virtually every neighborhood.

— Parents may delay seeking health care or social services because they do not want to use public clinics. "Going to school" carries with it none of the stigma of a welfare office. Thus, Prince George's County, Md., and others have demonstrated that health and social services in schools are well-received and permits treatment of families.

— Despite federal programs to provide health care for youth, many children go unimmunized. In some communities the statistic is 40 percent. Health care in schools can help meet this basic legal requirement to give children vital protection.

— Such programs, in schools, can screen children for physical or emotional conditions that can only cost county governments more money if left untreated.

— Expanded use of school buildings is a deterrent to destruction of school property through vandalism.

— Comprehensive community education programs can help make best use of available facilities. Some local systems have already converted extra classrooms for other purposes including day care for handicapped people and senior citizens centers.

Counties cannot continue to build libraries, recreation centers, health clinics and offices to house social servic Using empty schools make nse financially and progra cally.

And, r a decade of dwindling enrollmen, there are obvious advantages to school boards that must enlist tax support from an increasingly older population.

Twelve states support this concept. The federal government supplies seed money to start or expand such programs. Scores of projects, assisted by the Community Education Program of the U.S. Department of Education, have demonstrated that community education can meet diverse needs.

For example, in rural northeastern Tennessee and Rowan County, Ken., community education programs strive to reduce high school dropout rates. This is particularly important for county governments, for after all, if vocational training in schools has little relevance to local jobs, many students will find themselves unemployable.

The unemployed become the responsibility of local government when they require expensive social services or long-term financial assistance. In 18 states, county governments still pay welfare costs. It is their single most expensive program, requiring $11 billion last year.

Educators see other problems. Many school board members are anxious to preserve educational exclusivity of the school tax dollar — and not dissipate it on recreation. Some resist expansion of the "role" of education. They concede education simply cannot "do everything". Some teachers also resist "outside" use of classrooms, claiming facilities are not as clean afterwards.

Few realize that historically, the "little red school house" was a multi-purpose building.

Finally, community education is a mechanism for involving citizens in activities that can enrich the entire community. In Comal County, Texas, a project staff is working to increase citizen participation in school and local government affairs. In rural Brooks County, Ga., the community education program has developed a volunteer corps. In Fulton County, Ohio, community education fosters interagency cooperation through a county-wide information and referral consortium.

Some innovative projects have contributed to the revival of neighborhoods.

In one, renovation of a school as a senior citizens center was accomplished by students as a learning experience. In Lehigh County, Pa., former classrooms now serve as senior citizens centers. The Rootstown Middle School, Portage County, Ohio, serves approximately 40 meals a day to older people at less cost than if the elderly were fed separately.

Advocates also believe youth can learn human values by encountering elderly in a daily school setting. A Long Beach High School teacher in Nassau County, N.Y. feels so strongly about this principle that he is now teaching the state's first gerontology course. He has observed a "dramatic attitude change" in his students.

Frankly, present economic, environmental and populations changes demand that public servants work together so these programs can meet changing needs of society. For more information about how your community can develop comprehensive community education programs, write the National Community Education Association at 1030 15th Street, N.W., Suite 536, Washington, D.C. 20005.

York explains retirement

EDITOR—Thank you very much for your support during my years as Treasurer of Van Buren Township and for your concern during my recent illness.

I regret I was forced to leave my duties before my term had expired, but when my doctor was advised of the pressures placed on me by recall threats, he insisted that I retire earlier than I had anticipated or suffer grave consequences to my health.

Please be aware that although I have retired, I am still very concerned about the welfare of Van Buren Township and its citizens.

Statement is misleading

EDITOR — During the weekend of August 2-3, a four page tabloid, entitled a "Canton Voters' Guide", was distributed in Canton Township. While the sponsoring group was identified in the tabloid as the "Citizens for a Better Canton", a misleading statement, "Important Election — League of Women Voters hope for a good turn out" appears in large letters in the center of the front page.

League members have received dozens of phone calls asking if we have changed our well known policy of never endorsing or supporting candidates. This partisan tabloid used the name of the League of Women Voters without our knowledge or permission.

The League of Women Voters is a national, nonprofit organization which never supports or opposes any political party or candidate.

We are gravely concerned that the use of the name of the League in this partisan flyer has had a detrimental effect on the reputation of our sixty-year-old organization. We want to emphasize that this tabloid is not a League publication, and that in no way is it to be construed as an endorsement by the League of Women Voters of any candidate.

Girl Scouts say, 'Thanks'

EDITOR—On behalf of Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for the excellent news coverage the Associated Newspapers has given Girl Scouting this year.

Besides publicizing the positive aspects of Girl Scouting, the news coverage has aided Huron Valley with increased visability and improved image in your community.

Girl Scouting's increased awareness in the area has made it possible for Huron Valley to offer the Girl Scout program to a greater number of girls during the past year.

Again, think you for your support. If there is any way Girl Scouts can be of service to you, feel free to contact either myself or the area Press Representative, Sandy Draheim. Sandy can be reached at 722-2523, and I can be reached at the Girl Scout Office.

Konietzko is commended

EDITOR—On behalf of the Westland Festival Committee, I would like to take this opportunity to personally thank Lothar Konietzko, Associated Newspapers' Chief Photographer, for donating his time and efforts toward the success of the 1980 Miss Westland City Festival Pageant.

Judging is a difficult and complicated task which must be done without bias, and we greatly appreciated having someone of Mr. Konietzko's integrity, ability and sincerity handling that particular duty for us.

Once again, please accept our sincere gratitude.

UAW retiree raps voting

EDITOR—I just cannot understand the voters in Wayne County. They voted better than 2 to 1 to reorganize the county, and then put the same commissioners who got the county into the mess right back into office.

The U.A.W. C.A.P. sure doesn't screen their candidates very well, but that is to be expected; they never have.

If you can be controlled and are a "yes" person, you're in!

If the U.A.W. really wants good candidates, then they had better clean house.

When U.A.W. C.A.P. backed the past candidates they supported those who financially ruined our cities. Mr. Frazier better re-evaluate who his people endorse. I think my great grandson at 5 years can pick better people for office.

I'm a retired auto worker who was with the U.A.W.

Wake up, America

EDITOR—The radio commentators and the TV newsmen have referred to the direction the United States is taking and whether or not the man from California can convince the people of his power to change such direction.

I would like to say that to change any direction a country is taking, takes the power of the people.

Right now the people in these United States have little responsibility to do anything in that direction. When less than half of the voters vote year after year, is a good indication of that.

The Thomas Jefferson Research Center of California has a motto at the top of their news letter; it states, "The price of Freedom is Responsibility."

If we do not change the direction we are going and very soon, all these people who have not voted will discover the rest of their freedom will have evaporated as well as the right to vote.

The government is taking over our schools, they want to take away our right to won a gun, any gun' they are dictating to companies that have for years been the backbone of our country; the government is fast becoming our 'big daddy,' our big daddy with a strong pink tinge.

So wake up, America. You are the ones that will change this, not the Reagans, or Carters, or the Kennedys, or any other politician. It is you who will change it.

Musical tribute to North band

EDITOR —Recently in Washington D.C., the Romulus Schools achieved national recognition when the Romulus North Junior High Symphonic Band was accorded a special tribute in the Congressional Record of the United States.

Congressman William Ford introduced the tribute in the House of Representatives.

The tribute recognizes the outstanding performance of the Romulus North Symphonic Band at the State Band Festival held in Saline. The tribute also includes information concerning the State Festival performance, the background of the band and names of each student member.

Shortly, an 11" x 17" reproduction of this document will be mailed to each Romulus resident. A big "thank you" is in order to the Detro Reclamation Corporation of Romulus for the fine community spirit exhibited through financing the considerable printing and mailing costs of the special tribute.

Journey we've all experienced

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

For months Jason and Jamie, my grandson's, had been bugging me as to when we were going to Mullet Lake.

Ever since that day last summer, when in an expansive mood I had told them that they had at last reached the age when Grandma would take them up to her sanctuary, where the soul is refurbished, and the spirit is vitalized, and the body is refreshed by the touch of the waves playing games with color.

At last the day had come, and I knew it had arrived when the shrill ringing of the telephone wakened me before the birds began their chirping.

"Grandma, we'd better get going," a happy little voice sang over the wires. "Did you fo'get that today we are going to Muwett Wake?"

It took two hours to pack the trunk.

"We are only going for a week," I told their father, my son.

"I know," he shrugged and threw in another crate of toys.

"Take care of these kids, Mom," he said with his lips quivering under his beard. "And drive slow and carefully."

"Make them wear their life jackets around the water," their mother cried as we pulled away from the curb.

"Drive slow, Mom," my kid yelled as we rounded the corner.

"I like to ride with you, Grandma," Jason shrieked in my ear as we pulled out on the main road. "You always drive fast!"

"I wike to dwive fast," Jamie concurred.

Ten minutes into our journey, Jamie, who will be four-years-old in a few days, let out a long sigh. "How much wonger does it take to get to Muwett Wake?"

Every ten minutes for the almost 300 miles that kid let out a long sigh and asked the same question. At last as the great lake could be glimpsed through the trees, the little one said, "I think I'll go to sleep." And he did.

Silver Lodge Resort on Mullet Lake has been my retreat for many, many years, but not until last week did I know that there are over 5,000 different species of bugs, and bees and grasshoppers, and each one had its day sitting on the table at breakfast time, lunch time and dinner time.

Jason couldn't eat without his friends.

"Take those nasty things off the table." I would shout at the kid, and he would look up at me with stark dismay, his lip quivering, "But they're my friends, Grandma."

"Tell your friends to wait outside for you," and the kid would obediently let the bugs crawl up his arm and carefully, with arms outstretched, he would carry them outside. Halfway through the meal Jamie would begin to giggle and it wouldn't take long to discover the reason he was giggling, for out of pockets, and from under sleeves, came crawling Jason's friends.

"They won't bite," he would reassure me as I shoved him out the door and swept his friends along behind him..

When night would finally fall, and the two little guys were debugged, showered and ready for sleep, they would kneel beside the bed, tiny hands clasped, eyes rolled upward, and say their prayers. Cherubic little beings.

Just before the 'amen' one of them would ask what else they should say, and that first night I suggested they repeat, "God bless mama; God bless daddy; God bless Bobby, and God bless everyone in the world...."

Jamie's eyes flew open right after the God bless everyone. "Huh-uh, Gwandma',, he said. "Not Bwad and Keith. They're twouble-makers!" And bowing his head he asked God if he had heard, and then he shouted 'Amen."

"God doesn't wike to bwess twouble-makers," he said just before he fell asleep.

Guest column

In defense of young athletes

After reading Mr. Mooradian's column of July 30, I feel compelled to offer some sort of rebuttal in defense of the young athletes playing sports today.

I have two sons in Romulus South Little League, The oldest, David, has played for the same coach for the last five years, Will Faulkner.

Will's son, Terry, was also on the team, and when Terry and Dave were ready to move up to Majors, Will moved up also and became their coach once again. Two years ago my younger son, Jon, tried out for Majors and was lucky enough to make Faulkner's team.

I say lucky enough because I think that Will is the best Little League coach in Romulus. I know that this would embarrass him, but he deserves to know how much we appreciate what he has done for all the boys on his teams.

Our first year in Little League was nothing special. The boys were all so young, but they had a good time. The second year was pretty much a repeat of the first. The third saw some changes as many of the boys moved up to Majors with Mr. Faulkner.

Finally this year everything clicked for our team. The new boys looked good and the returning players were better than last year. We won the first two games, lost the third, won five, lost one, won two, lost one, won two more, lost one and won the remaining six games. We finished the season in first place with seventeen wins and only four losses. Each and every player on the Royals can claim a crucial hit, a crucial out, an extraordinary play, in one of this season's games. The boys had learned the fine art of teamwork, and learned it well. It was a delight to watch them play.

The point that makes their victory so sweet is a very personal one, to Faulkner's as well as to all the rest of us. Five weeks into the season Terry Faulkner went into insulin shock. There had been no history of diabetes in either family, and Terry was a very sick boy for a few days until the diabetes was brought under control. The news understandably upset the team.

Young kids don't often have to face the fragility of life; they just expect to grow up and lead a long, healthy life. The whole team rallied, though, and went on to win games for Terry, sending him "game balls" in the hospital, cards, etc., and Terry was able to come back to the team within two weeks. Throughout this terrible time, Will never let the team or the boys down, and the boys responded in a like fashion, going on to finish the season in first place.

With this victory, Will earned the right, then, to coach the South All-Stars and picked George Dunn as his assistant. These two men molded one of the finest Little League teams I've ever seen.

With the pitching of Tony Yandura and Dave Bergman, the team beat Melvindale 7-1 in the first game, beat Westland 5-1 in the second game, and finally lost to Southwest Detroit in the third game, 6-1. The boys played their collective hearts out for Will and George and it was a terrific experience for all of us.

The loss to Detroit was hard, but the boys had done their best, and that's really all you can ask of anyone. On the way home after the loss to Detroit David was trying to come to grips with it all and rationalized that, "You know, in a way we're luckier than those kids from Detroit. We didn't lost to a little city, we lost to big Detroit.

Those Detroit kids only have the big papers like the Free Press and News so they won't be able to read about their games, but we have our own paper. Do you think they'll print anything about us now?" The answer, unfortunately, was no.

I read an editorial in the same week's paper chastising Romulus officials for not showing up at public functions. I agree that it's time that these officials and Romulus' official newspaper start to recognize the good things about Romulus, the kids who don't get in trouble, the spirit that tries to keep the small-town friendliness alive.

Our kids deserve a pat on the back once in a while, they need to know that we take pride in what they do, they have as much right to be in the Romulus paper as do the Wayne kids, or the Van Buren kids, or those endless golf tournaments.

We need to show them that we care, we notice the good, not just the bad, that we appreciate them.

We played baseball for three months, and the season has been over for th e weeks. In that time, two little articles were in our paper. No standings printed, no pictures, no mention of the All Stars, no nothing.

I work as a secretary for the Romulus Schools, and as an employee, parent and taxpayer, have sat through the last nine months of School Board meetings listening to high school students speak out in defense of their coaches, plead for the chance to keep football, wrestling, track, etc.

For the most part these athletes have been very literate, intelligent young people, and they were not about to give in without a good fight, without making their feelings known.

I must given them a tremendous amount of credit for being able to present their views to a roomful of sometimes hostile adults, adults who had strikes, taxes and the threats of continued labor problems on their minds.

These were not kids backing away from pressure — just the opposite, in fact. They welcomed the pressure. They were sure of themselves, their abilities, and they knew what they wanted.

Let's start recognizing the good kids, the volunteers, the behind the scenes people who go to make up our life. A team can't win on the efforts of one player, not does it lose on one mistake. Everybody must make a contribution, and the sum total is our life.

Speaking for my sons, as well as for all the other families we've shared Little League with, thank you, Will Faulkner, for a wonderful experience. You've given the boys the best start they could have hoped for.

With your help and inspiration, they will go on to enjoy team sports for the rest of their lives. You deserve the "front row." From Dave, a special "thank you" to George Dunn. Half of that game ball belongs to you.

On love and marriages

By CAROL PREMO, PhD.

DEAR CAROL,

I was reading an article about love and marriage the other day.

In the article they suggested playing a guessing game the next time you go to a restaurant—which couples are married and which are lovers?

The upshot of the article was the couples are married if he is not listening to what she is saying, they have not said a word during dinner and she is checking the time.

They are lovers if they are laughing, he is stroking her hair and they often say each others names.

Based on your experience as a therapist, do you know why this seems to happpen? Is it just a natural progression in a relationship? Do we deceive ourselves into thinking we will not change?

Or is George Bernard Shaw right in saying, "People in love are under the influence of the most violent, most insane, most elusive and most transient of passions, and they are required to swear that they will remain in that excited, abnormal, exhausting condition until death do them part."

Do love and marriage not go together like a horse and carriage (we do have horseless carriages these days)?

Wondering

DEAR WONDERING,

How sad that in some people's vocabulary the terms married and lovers are mutually exclusive. However, I do not say in all people's vocabularies.

Let me respond to your first question. I do not know that this does happen or that it is a natural progression.

What some people see as evidence of love (and perhaps even Shaw falls into this trap) isin reality the signs of infatuation or lust. Examples are the desire to possess, control or manipulate another.

That love must be laughter, fondling or sex to be meaningful is perhaps one of the most dangerous fallacies perpetrated in our society today and may well be helping escalate the skyrocketing divorce rate.

If we tell people that attraction to a pretty face or a strong body or witty tongue is love, we send them down a dead end. Tingles up and down a spine won't bind people together forever. Perhaps love is understanding, forgiving, sharing and a deep mental as well as emotional commitment to another.

Let me suggest, just for fun, that the first couple is silently sharing based on understanding and unspoken communication, and the wife is checking her watch because they must return to THEIR home, THEIR children and THEIR responsibilities.

The second couple is laughing out of anxiety rooted in trying to impress, and using each other's names lest they forget them. Granted this last part was slanted, but so was the first article.

P.S. Just as an after thought. Have you ever seen a couple on their 50th or, God willing, 75th wedding anniversary? They're not exactly chatter boxes, are they?

Geer School celebrates centennial

Geer Elementary School is celebrating its centennial of continuous operation on September 21, 1980 at an open house on the school grounds from 3:00 to 5:00 PM.

The teachers, students, parents and alumni are extremely proud of Geer School's record of excellence and community involvement. We feel that we have the best of modern education firmly entrenched in the standards of the past.

Geer School is more than a two-room building to which parents have sent their children for educating since 1880. Geer is a family affair in the best tradition of teacher-student-parent sharing, caring and learning.

Our children are taught by two outstanding teachers, Rita McClumpha and Thomas Boersma, and by the parents who daily go to school to help, support and aid them. The children learn from seeing their teachers and parents working with them to keep the school educationally and physically strong, as when we all help repair the school and keep the grounds and equipment in working order.

An example of Geer's influence on the families that pass through her doors is the annual Thanksgiving Dinner. Over 100 years ago Geer families gathered each year in the schoolhouse to celebrate Thanksgiving. Each year since then we have done the same until now we must use a nearby school's cafeteria to accommodate over 200 families who come, some from long distances, to celebrate together. Students, alumni, teachers, families past and present whose only bond is Geer School.

We would be honored if you could join us this September 21st to celebrate our past and look to our future. Our families will be in period costume and afgans and quilts the children have made will be on display. Refreshments will be served and the Fife and Drum Corps will perform. The flag will be presented to Geer School which has flown over the United States Capitol Building in the school's honor.

We are proud of our school, our teachers and our families and would like to share this pride with the world. If you have any questions please feel free to contact me at 6870 North Territorial Road, Plymouth, Michigan 48170 or call (313) 459-2234. Come and join us in 1980 or perhaps your decendents will be able to celebrate with us in 2080 for our Bi-Centennial.

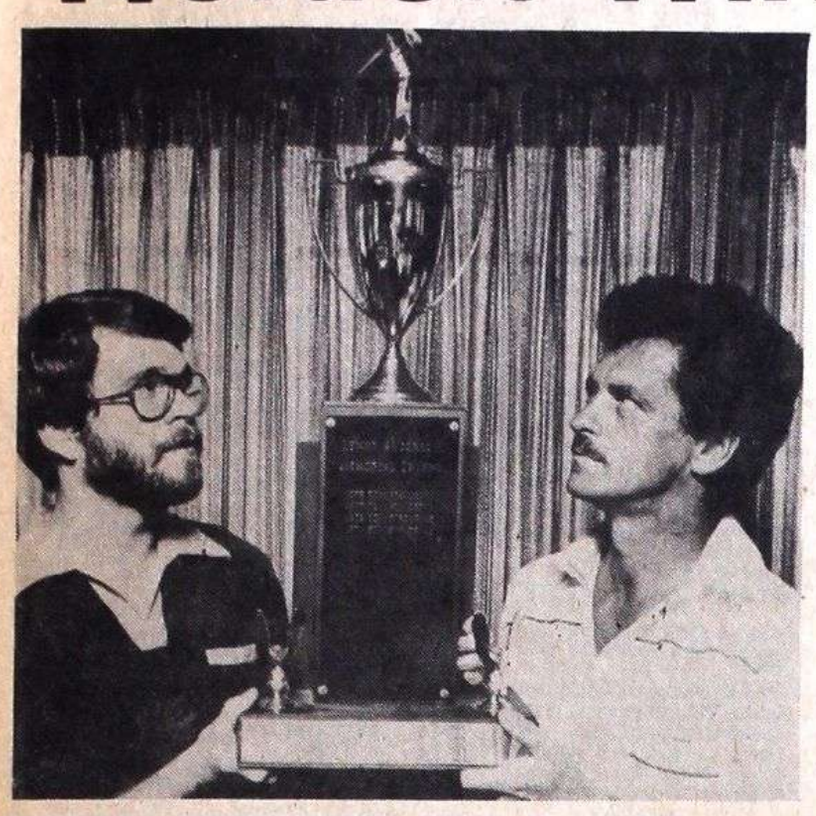
Holden wins crown by one stroke

3 Challengers can't stop All-American



A friend's tribute

Wayne's Ray Ostyn (right) vowed he would do his best this year to bring home top honors in his city as a tribute to his late friend, Lenny Anderson, the first Wayne officer killed in action. The Name's of Wayne's winners in the City Golf Tournament go on the handsome trophy each year and Ray tied 17-year-old Steve Zaidel at 152 for low score. Ostyn defeated Zaidel on the third hole in a sudden death playoff to give the veteran 40-year-old golfer the Wayne title. He'sshown here with Bill Anderson, brother of Lenny, and the large memorial trophy he dedicated himself to win as a tribute to his friend.

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

It took an All-American collegian and some inclement weather to end Tom Piscopink's three-year grip on the City Golf championships decided Sunday at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton.

Westland's 22-year-old Russ Holden proved a worthy successor to wear the prestigious crown when he fired a one-under-par 71 Saturday to go with last week's 75 and a winning total of 146 over the 36-hole test.

Holden finished one stroke ahead of three dogged challengers — Garden City's Roger Sutherland and Al D'Amato and Matthew Wiley of Canton — who each finished with 147. Inkster's Kevin Ryan, the first round leader with a brilliant two-under-par 70 last week, skied to an 80 Saturday to finish with 150 in fifth place.

Piscopink of Wayne, who won titleist honors in the 5-city tournament the past three years and Wayne's City Title the past four years, had to withdraw when a torrential downpour wiped out the first roundand the tourney was delayed one week. Both Piscopink and Westland's Fred Bachiel, who also finishes high in the annual 5-city tournament, were committed to play in a golf tournament this past weekend in Grosse Ile.

The 21st annual City Golf Championships, sponsored by Associated Newspapers and the Parks and Recreation Departments of Wayne, Westland, Canton, Inkster and Garden City, drew more than 100 swingers to the short, but shrewd, 6,200-yard, par 72 Fellows Creek layout.

Tied for sixth place for medalist honors with 156 were Ray Ostyn and Steve Zaidel of Wayne, followed by Garden City's Brian Bielecki and Canton's Kevin Schwaum, 156; Garden City's Henry Leszczynski, 157; Westland's Kevin Pollock, 158, and Canton's Rick Zylka with 159.

All eyes were on the first foursome of Holden, Sutherland, Wiley and Ryan, the top finishers after the first round.

Ryan, holding a two-stroke edge over Wiley; a four-stroke lead over Canton's D'Amato, who was in the second foursome, and a five-stroke bulge over Holden and Sutherland, looked in good shape starting the second round Saturday. However, the tee-off time was delayed more than an hour and when the golfers did start swinging, Ryan faltered badly with a bogey-double bogey-bogey on the first three holes.

Sutherland of Garden City, a humorous, portly swinger, was red-hot on the first nine, steamrolling to a one-under-par 35, one stroke better than Holden's 36 and ahead of Wiley's 38 and Ryan's 39. Ryan's birdie three on the 9th hole gave him a 1-stroke lead over the pack and he parred the 340-yard 10th hole. But his drive on the difficult 220-yard 11th hole bounced into the creek on the right, giving him a five on the hole. He bogeyed the short 12th and parred 13 and 14 before he shanked his drive on the 165-yard, par 3 15th hole for a double bogey, which left him three strokes behind Holden and four behind Sutherland with three holes to play.

"I just couldn't hit the ball off the tee," said the 20-year-old Ryan, who has only been playing golf four years. "I just couldn't seem to get my game together — it just wasn't my day." Wiley, who was just one stroke behind Sutherland and Holden coming to the 18th green, agreed. "Kevin was not hitting them like he usually does."

Meanwhile, Holden picked up momentum on the back nine, knocking in birdies on holes 12, 13 and 16 to finally pull even with Sutherland, last year's Garden City champion. Holden, an NAIA All-American who attends Malone College in Canton, Ohio, finished 12th in that collegiate tournament to be named All-American. He also played two years for Schoolcraft Community College before that.

Holden, a scholarly-looking, bespectacled 6-2, 178-pounder, trailed Sutherland by one at the turn, but went even when the 35-year-old Garden City quipster bogeyed the short 10th hole. A birdie three gave Wiley a brief one-stroke edge. However, Wiley, who was a senior on Wayne State University's golf team this year, faltered with a double bogey on the tough 11th hole and Holden's birdies on 12 and 13 never let the Cantonite catch up, although a 10-foot birdie putt by Wiley just missed on the 18th that would have tied for the title.

"My putting was off all day and I missed 10-foot putts on the last two holes that could have made the difference," Wiley said. Wiley fired 12 pars and birdies on 12 and 16, but stumbled with three bogeys and a double bogey to let the crown slip away. Wiley, like Ryan, has only been playing golf for four years.

When Holden double-bogeyed the 375-yard, 14th and Sutherland parred it for a one-stroke lead, things looked good for the 5-10, 190-pound Garden City veteran. If there was a disappointed guy — and there

Best of the best

All-American college golfer Russ Holden of Westland (right) flashes a victory smile after he edged three challengers by one stroke to win the 21st annual 5-City golf tournament at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton. Holden, a student at Malone College in Canton, Ohio, shot a 75-71—146 to edge Garden City's Roger Sutherland and a duo from Canton. Al D'Amato and Matt Wiley, who all carded 147s. Holden is presented the medalist's trophy by tournament director Bill Hawley, who was ably assisted by Bill Whitworth Jr. of Wayne and workers from the Parks and Recreation Departments of Westland, Canton and Inkster in conducting the 36-hole tournament.

'Sudden death' playoffs determine 5 flight winners

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

No less than five of the 12 flights ended in ties Sunday and needed sudden death playoffs to decide various trophy winners in the 21st annual 5-City Golf Championships, sponsored by Associated Newspapers and the Parks and Recreation Departments of Wayne, Westland, Canton, Inkster and Garden City.

Wayne was "fit to be tied" as their championship flight and first and second flights needed playoffs to see who won the handsome trophies for the first three place finishers in each division. In addition, Canton's championship flight needed five extra holes before Al D'Amato edged Matt Wiley for that community's titleist honors.

Also, Ken Eck defeated Bennie Poindexter on the second playoff hole for third place in Westland's Championship Flight.

But probably the most sentimental playoff came when Wayne's Ray Ostyn and Steve Zaidel hooked up in a sudden death battle to decide who would win their city's title in the championship flight and have their name engraved on the Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy.

It was a study in contrast — youth versus experience — as the 40-year-old Ostyn and Zaidel, a 17-year-old senior at Westland John Glenn High School this fall,hooked up for supremacy. Ostyn said before the tournament that his desire was to win the Lenny Anderson trophy, symbolic of the Wayne championship and named after the first police officer to lose his life in the line of duty in Wayne.

"I knew Lenny and I also know his former partner, Pat Brown. If I win, I would like to present it to him so he can display it in his bar," Ostyn said last week. Brown is owner ofthe Extra Point Bar in Wayne.

Both Ostyn and Zaidel finished with 76-76 — 152 totals, as the lanky Zaidel picked up two strokes on the final four holes to tie the veteran Wayne golfer. Both golfers were shaky in the overtime session, scrambling for bogey 5s on the first and second holes.

Then things opened up on the third playoff hole. "Steve was really pumped up and the adrenalin was flowing," the dark-haired Ostyn said in the clubhouse after his belated victory. "I was quite excited, too."

Zaidel skied his drive just a short distance on the par 5, 475-yard test but hit a good second shot in good position to chip on. Meanwhile, Ostyn drove his tee shot into the rough on the left ofthe fairway by the out-of-bounds fence and hit his second along the rough on the left, just missing several trees.

Zaidel overshot the green by 30 feet as his chip shot bounced to the 4th tee area while Ostyn, who has lived in the shadow of Tom Piscopink for several years in golfing circles in Wayne, made the shot that decided the issue. He drilled a 30-foot chip shot to within

Champs in Canton

Canton provided some of the best players and most exciting moments in this year's 5-City Golf Championships when they placed two in the top four finishers out of more than 100 golfers. Al D'Amato (right) and Matt Wiley (center) finished with 147s, just one stroke behind medalist Russ Holden. Keven Schwaum (left) carded a 77-79 for 156 and a third place trophy in Canton. D'Amato gave his younger opponent, Wiley, a lesson as the sage veteran defeated the Wayne State University collegian on the fifth hole of a sudden death playoff to take first place honors in Canton.— All photos by Lothar Konietzko.

The Sports Meridian

An end of an era

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The ecstasy had given way to self-doubts. The face was covered with frustration. There were beads of sweat dripping down the neck but, yet, the tall young man stood cool.

"How you doing?" I asked Kevin Ryan whose 2-under par 70 had earned him the first round lead for the 21st annual City Golf Championships at Fellows Creek.

"Not so good," replied the Inkster golfer, shaking his head in disgust, his disordered hair bobbing sideways, as if to accent the bewilderment. "But we got more to go out there, and I still have a chance."

Ryan, like most of his 90 and some colleagues, checked into the clubhouse for a snack before taking on the last nine of a 36-hole tournament which determined the city champs for Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Canton and Inkster.

As my colleague, Jim Bradley, will tell you somewhere else on these pages, Ryan lost his bid wo tin the tournament, giving way to newcomer to the tournament Russ Holden of Westland. There was something that Ryan said I would like to share that shows the quality of this young athlete. When asked if it was the pressure or the late start that got to him, Ryan said: "No, not really, the conditions here are the same for all of us."

Spoken like a true champ.

The tournament was delayed for an hour no, not because of rain, but because of a mix-up in scheduling. Last week a second tournament had been rained out, and the 28 golfers showed up on Saturday wanting to finish up. Couldn't be helped — a human error.

It was a treat to watch the sunlight bounce off the golfers on Saturday and not watch them swim through the field as they did a week ago.

Before we leave the 21st annual tournament there are a few notes, unfortunately, negative ones, I must record here for the readers and golfers who are looking forward to next year's session.

It's always great when the guys get together for their annual golf tournament and have a good time.

But, like anything else, there are always a few who seem to spoil it for the rest. For instance, we were told of several instances where some golfers used little etiquette when others were driving, putting or addressing their ball.

Ray Ostyn and his brother, George, seemed to have the misfortune of having the same fellow distract their thoughts when they were getting ready for important shots. Ray survived and won Wayne's Championship Flight honors with a hard-earned sudden death playoff victory over 17-year-old Steve Zaidel, a senior at John Glenn High School this fall.

- "The vast majority of the guys were real gentlemen like Steve and were a pleasure to play with," Ray observed. "I just hope the high school golf coaches teach etiquette on the golf course as well as how to hit a ball," he said.

George, his brother, agreed that golf etiquette is a vital part of the game. "I'm sure that the high school coaches stress the etiquette part of golf and many of the younger pleayers are very courteous on the course." George said.

Ray, for instance, said one player in the tournament went roaring by on his golf cart while he was lining up an important shot. Others were reminded to be quiet on the tee as the golfers got ready to drive off the first tee by starter Bill Whitworth Jr.

Numerous players replaced their divots and smoothed out the marks in the greens where their approach shots landed, however, there were those who did not take care of the course like they should.

Still others talked loudly while important putts were being stroked by competitors striving to stay in the race for honors.

All in all it was one of the best tournaments we've had, despite the unfortunate 90 minute delay in teeing off Saturday. That was not our fault, but we apologize for it anyhow.

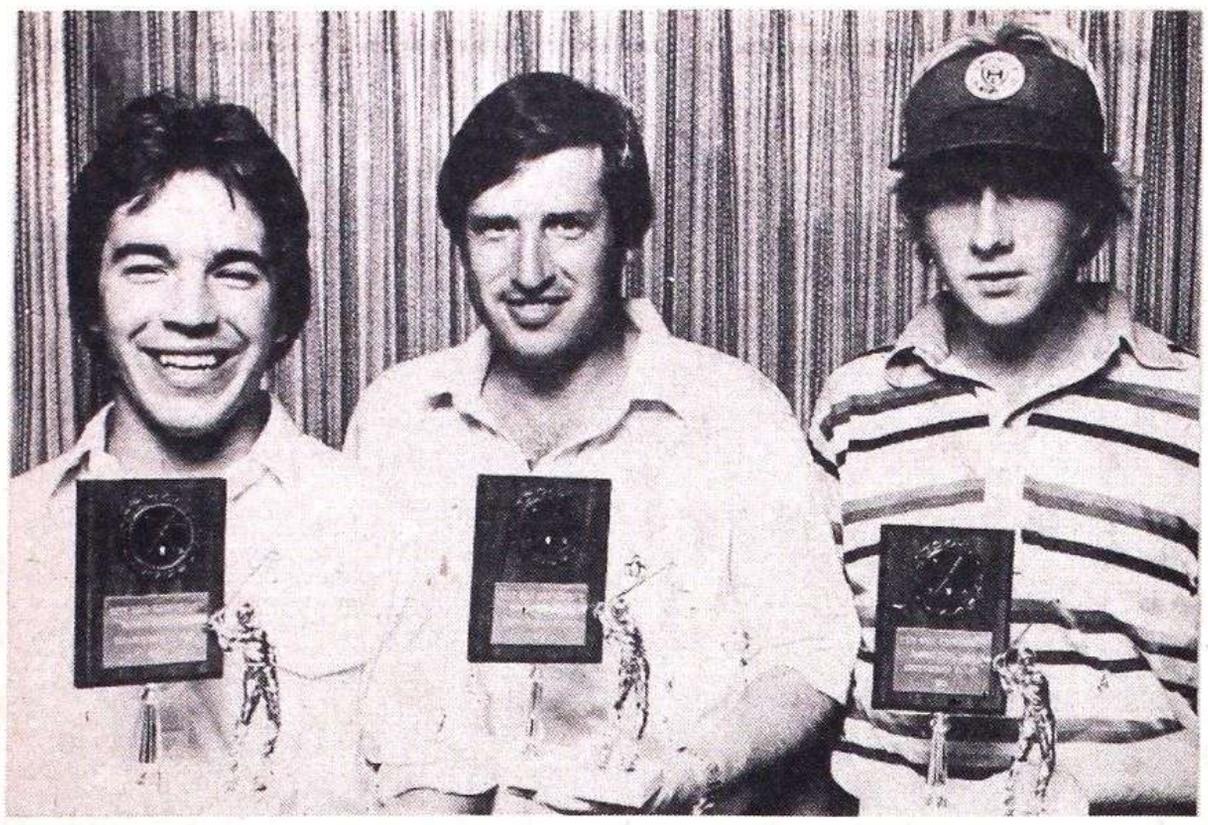
Kolodziej named Franklin grid coach

If enthusiasm and energy produce football winners, then Franklin Junior High need not worry. They have a winner in Fred Kolodziej who was named last week as head football coach at the Wayne-Westland School District junior high.

Kolodziej, who has amassed a remarkable 68-8 won-lost record during his 12 years as head coach in the CYO program at St. Richards and Little League, worked as a defensive backfield coach for Floyd Carter's Zebras at Wayne High last year.

"Last year Franklin failed to win a game in their six outings," Kolodziej said. "I feel we have the talent to become a winner over there."

Kolodziej has picked up Ted Rize, Terry Kadelec and Tom Piscopink as assistant coaches.



Garden City's top three

Humorous Roger Sutherland, who is deadly serious on the links, came within a whisker of tying for the 21st annual 5-City Golf Championships when he went for his 20-foot birdie putt to win and finally 3-putted the final hole Saturday to finish in a three-way tie for second with 147. Sutherland (center) led Garden City's top three as Brian Bielecki (left) and Henry Leszcynski (Yes, Henry, we spelled it right!) finished second and third with 156 and 157. The portly Sutherland kiddingly said he "lost" a stroke when a photographer took his picture as he was hitting a shot and he shanked it because he was trying to hold his stomach in.

Sudden death playoffs needed to decide winners

eight feet of the pin. Youthful Zaidel made a good chip but two-putted for a bogy six. Ostyn's birdie putt slid just past the cup but he dropped the tap-in for a par 5 to win Wayne's Championship Flight title for 1980.

Roger Sanford finished third with 81-80 — 161.

Another exciting climax was in Canton's Championship Flight sudden death playoff between Al D'Amato (74-73) and Matt Wiley (72-75), who each finished with 147, good for second place in medalist competition overall and tops in Canton. Once again it was the youthful exuberance of 22-year-old Wiley, a college golfer at Wayne State University this spring, against the muscular 40-year-old D'Amato, who says he thrives on pressure.

After tying on the first two holes. Wiley simply had to drop a short putt on the third green and he had the championship locked up. D'Amato, who had holed out already, had packed up his clubs and was ready to head for the clubhouse — sure that his collegiate friend would sink his easy putt.

However, Wiley's putting, which had betrayed him all day, failed him again in the clutch and D'Amato had new life. They both parred the 370-yard, par 4 hole and journeyed to the tricky 135-yard, par 3 fifth hole.

D'Amato hit the green and two-putted while Wiley had trouble getting his ball in the hole and wound up with a bogey four. Following third behind champ D'Amato and Wiley was Kevin Schwaum, who fired a 77-79 — 156.

More excitement attended the fight for third place in the championship flight for the city of Westland. Russ Holden, the medalist, took top honors with 75-71 — 146 and Kevin Pollock finished runnerup with 78-80 — 158.

Again it was a battle of youth versus experience as Ken Eck (81-82) dueled veteran Bennie Poindexter (79-84) after both tied with 163. Pressure prevailed on the first hole of sudden death when Poindexter faltered slightly after a 230-yard drive right down the middle. His second shot was 20 feet short of the green and he chipped to within 12 feet of the hole. But his par putt missed by six inches and he settled for a bogey five.

However, Eck sank a pressure-packed four-foot bogey putt to halve the hole. On the tough, 405-yard, par 4 second hole, Eck chipped his third shot to within six feet of the cup but two-putted for another bogey five. Poindexter, nevertheless, could not take advantage of his opponent's lapse. The veteran Westland golfer, who has played in just about every City Golf Championship Tournament, lipped the cup on his uphill bogey putt and the ball stayed out as Eck eked out the win.

Two other sudden death playoffs were in Wayne's first and second flights. In Wayne's first flight, Kip Swihart's 84-85 — 169 took first place honors but Mike Luzaich (85-86), Darryl Williams (83-88) and Tom Larson (84-87) all tied for second place with 171s.

Luzaich finished second and Williams was third in the deciding round.

In Wayne's Second Flight, Ron Hoffman (89-84) and Tim Gilbert (89-84) were knotted at 173 but Gilbert had to leave for a softball game and could not stay for a playoff. Hoffman was named first, Gilbert placed second and Roy Yager's 93-91 — 184 was good for third place.

The top five finishers in each city will represent their community at the 1980 Michigan Parks and Recreation Department state championships in Midland on Saturday, Sept. 6. Those who finished in the top three in each flight were awarded handsome trophies for their endeavors.

Stuns Romulus champs

Caesar's captures crown

There's a cliche in sports that streaks are made to be broken and Little Ceasar's picked an opportune time to snap newly-crowned league champ, A.P.A.'s winning streak.

A.P.C., undefeated in Romulus Class A women's softball league action during the regular season, ran up against a stubborn and ready Ceasar's contingent in the playoffs.

Ceasar's started out slow in its bid for the playoff title as it lost its opening game to Morgan Collision, 5-4. Morgan's won the game in the sixth when Neal Eberline scored on a single by Patty Dick.

Little Ceasar's came back though to win a hard-fought 6-2 decision over Progressive Club. Jan Coleman was the winning pitcher while Kathy Kennedy sustained the loss.

Then, Ceasar's took to Morgan's the second time around, winning an impressive 8-1 verdict. Ceasar's scored four runs in the opening inning and never trailed after that. Debbie Rashi, Ray Savage, and Sue Fitzpatrick each had two hits for Little Ceasar's.

In the championship game, Ceasar's blanked A.P.A., 5-0, on Coleman's superb three-hit pitching performance. Savage also knocked in three runs for the playoff champs.Women's League B

Jac's Lounge reigns as Women's League B champs as they defeated both league winner. F. X. Coughlin, and second place finisher Emery Hustlers to win the play-offs between the top four teams. Jac's finished third in the regular season but played some fine softball to win the play-offs.

In their first game, Jac's knocked off first place finisher F.X. Coughlin 7-4. Betty Foote led Jac's at the plate with four singles. In their second game, Jac's defeated Emery Hustlers 9.-2.

Winning pitcher was Carolyn Kierce, who tossed a six-hitter. Then, in the final, Jac's again beat Emery, but in a much closer well-

Wayne's elite trio

For the first time in five years, Tom Piscopink will not have his name inscribed on the Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy as the top golfer from Wayne in the prestigious 5-City Golf Championships concluded Saturday at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton. Ray Ostyn (right), a determined veteran who deserves the honor, won first place in a sudden death playoff against Steve Zaidel (left) when the talented pair finished with identical 76-76—152s to lead Wayne's Championship flight. Roger Sanford (center) earned the third place trophy with 81-80—160. piscopink, a local favorite and outstanding golfer, had to withdraw when heavy rains postponed the ANP-sponsored event for one week. Westland Championship flight

Playoffs decided trophy winners in five of the 12 flights in the 21st annual 5-City Golf Championships, co-sponsored by Associated Newspapers and the Parks and Recreation departments of Wayne, Westland, Canton, Inkster and Garden City. Westland's Championship Flight was included in the group that had a "sudden death" elimination. Russ Holden, of course, was Westland's low scorer with his tourney-winning total of 146. Kevin Pollock (left) was second with 78-80—158, while Ken Eck (center) and Bennie Poindexter (not pictured) tied with identical 163s. Eck, being presented his trophy by Paddy Lynn, Westland Parks and Recreation leader, defeated Poindexter on the second extra hold when the veteran Poindexter three-putted the difficult 405-yard, par four test.

Best in Westland's 1st flight

One good thing about the 5-City Golf Championships is that everyone has a chance to bring home a trophy no matter what score they normally shoot because the groups are put in flights according to ability. No less than 12 flights were listed and the top three finishers in each group took home handsome hardware, making a total of 36 trophies handed out. The best in Westland's First Flight were Ramzy Teweel (left), who shot 80-83 -- 163; Terry Lemieux (right) was second with 82-32 -- 164; and George Ostyn (center) carded an 82-84 -- 166 for third place.

Inkster 1st flight winners

Holden wins by one shot

were several on the course Sunday — certainly Sutherland deserved a touch of sympathy.

The likeable, good-natured salesman led by one stroke over his competitors after 15 holes and things still looked good when he scrambled for a par on the tree-lined 16th hole. "I hit my drive right next to the parta-johns in the trees," he grinned. "My second shot went through the trees onto the 14th fairway and my third shot landed in the bunker on the right side of the green. I blasted out and sank a 10-footer to save my par."

That left things all even between Holden and Sutherland, with Wiley just one stroke back. All four parred the 17th hole and when Sutherland was on 18 in two shots, things looked good. But his 4-foot par putt, which was on a slope right to left, rimmed the cup and stayed out. "I went for the win with my 20-foot birdie putt and went too far, then I missed coming back. Sure, it's disappointing to come so close and lose, but the best man won," Sutherland said.

Holden sank his par putt, giving him a one-stroke victory margin over Sutherland and Wiley, who also parred the hole. Sutherland missed birdie putts of five feet on number six, and 12-feet on the 8th hole that he felt could have made a big difference.

The new champion, who has a becoming humility, hit 16 greens in regulation. "But I just couldn't make any putts. Others in our foursome were putting so much better than I was, but I'm very thankful for the win. I'm happy about the 10-foot putt I needed to save my par on the 15th hole after a double bogey on 14," said Holden, who parred all front nine holes and had birdies on 12, 13 and 16.

Canton's Al D'Amato, who was disappointed that he was not included in the first foursome of low scorers (he finiished third in the first round), had to keep checking ahead to see what the leaders were doing. Meanwhile, the 5-9, 170-pound Canton clubber stayed doggedly on the heeds on the front-runners, eventually losing by one stroke as he finished with 147.

"I'm extremely disappointed that I was not placed in the first foursome so I could play head-to-head with the leaders," he said after his second place finish. "I believe it would have helped me to shoot better with the pressure on," said D'Amato,whose young son caddied for him and was his biggest fan.

played game 6-5.

The score was tied going into the bottom of the seventh when Therese Daniel singled and scored on a double by Cindy Brady. Carolyn Kierce took the win while Carol Minda suffered the loss. In Men's League B, not only did Romulus Press Repair win the league title, they also won the play-offs in fine fashion.

First, they beat Schnieder's-Delta Drugs 17-3. Press Repair scored 12 runs in the first inning to secure the victory. Then, Johnny's Party Store almost pulled the upset of the season as they lost a 11-10 game to Romulus Press Repair had an easy time of it as they defeated Bates & Son's 11-5.

Marty Hackman had two homers and two singles to lead his team on to victory.

Capt. Nemo's proved once again it's hard to keep a good team down. They won the play-offs in three straight games to add to their first place finish in League A. The first game they won was over Joni's Hanger 14-12. Then they beat Bingamen Agency 15-11 for their second win of the playoffs.

In the final game they led all the way as they defeated Joni's Hangar again this time by the score of 13-7.

Two fresh fruit pies

As the supplies of the season's fresh fruits become plentiful, it is timely to enjoy their abundance in as many ways as possible. And what could be more inviting than a luscious fruit pie that makes a party of an occasion!

Sweet Cherry Pie is a company dessert that can be prepared early in the day and chilled until serving time. Two basic ingredients — thawed Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping and cherry flavor gelatin — make up the fluffy filling that takes so well to the juicy ripe cherries. Garnished with additional topping and fruit, it makes an elegant dessert.

Peach Party Pie is another light-textured dessert which uses the topping and gelatin mixture in a peach-lined pound cake shell.

Sweet Cherry pie

1 package (3 oz.) cherry flavor gelatin
2/3 cup boiling water
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups ice cubes
1 container (8 oz.) frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed
1 cup coarsely chopped pitted fresh dark sweet cherries
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled

Dissolve gelatin completely in boiling water, stirring 3 minutes. Add cinnamon and ice cubes and stir constantly until gelatin is thickened, about 2 to 3 minutes. Remove any unmelted ice. Using wire whip, blend in whipped topping; then whip until smooth. Fold in cherries. Chill if necessary, until mixture will mound. Spoon into pie shell. Chill 2 hours. Garnish with additional cherries, if desired.

Peach Party pie

1 cup sliced fresh peaches, dipped in lemon juice
1 baked Pound Cake Shell, cooled
1 package (3 oz.) peach flavor gelatin
2/3 cup boiling water
2 cups ice cubes
1 container (8 oz.) frozen whipped topping, thawed
3 tablespoons raspberry preserves

Arrange peaches in cake shell. Dissolve gelatin completely in boiling water, stirring 3 minutes. Add ice cubes and stir constantly until gelatin is thickened, about 2 to 3 minutes. Remove any unmelted ice. Using wire whip, blend in whipped topping; then whip until smooth. Chill, if necessary, until mixture will mound. Spoon into shell. Spoon on preserves and zigzag spatula through mixture to marble. Chill 2 hours.

Baked Pound Cake Shell. Cut 1 small (10-3/4oz.) frozen pound cake, thawed, into 1/4-inch slices. Arrange around sides and on bottom of 9-inch pie pan, cutting slices as necessary to fill in spaces. (Save unused portion of cake for another dessert.) Brush cake with 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons slivered almonds. Bake at 375 degrees for about 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool.

Suburban Living Editor

As each year breezes by, one more swiftly than the other, you'd think scenes of your childhood would fade from your mind rather than flash through so vividly and so often. I can't recall what I did yesterday without consulting the calendar and yet -- those yesteryears keep popping up regularly and clearly to boot.

Any time I open the windows, for instance, leveling each one perfectly with the other, the action brings to mind my elementary days at St. John's in Ypsi. Those nuns were sticklers for neatness and anyone given the "honor" of raising the windows knew without being told a second time that each was to be at the exact height as the other. Five years of that seems to have registered!

And just the other day, while lunching with friends, I found myself repeating an action of those same school days -- quartering my sandwich. While the "city kids" got to go home for lunch, we "bus kids" had to brown bag it (a term that replaced "lunchpail") in the church basement. The sister on noon hour duty always reminded us that we were to break our sandwiches into fourths (or have our mothers cut them thusly) for lady-like and gentlemanly lunching -- a habit that just repeats itself automatically for me.

And not a day going to or from work am I not reminded of the special and rather unique playhouse I had as a little girl of five and six... a corncrib attached to the side of the barn-garage where we lived. Although we never farmed, we did have the use of that corncrib. But what can you store in something that leans out diagonally and has wide, airy gaps between the boards?

Being one of the era's "typical little girls", I DID love to play house with my slightly older friend, Rosie. And my mom, appreciating the fact, decided the corncrib -- cool and out of the sun -- would be the ideal spot for us to do our pretending.

I just never noticed corncribs in this area (I think they went the route of "progress" a long time ago) but between Tecumseh and Belleville they are popular reminders of the past. None of them actually house what their name implies -- just there, I think, for old times sake. And for reminiscing?

LOOKING BACK TO WHAT HAPPENED ON THIS DAY, AUG. 13...

IN 1899 – Alfred Hitchcock, who's title would someday be "the master of suspense", was born. He later became one of Hollywood's most famous film directors, his specialty being mystery and intrigue.

IN 1923 – "Yes, We Have No Bananas" was the Number 1 hit song in the nation. Written by orchestra leader Frank Silver and his piano player, Irving Conn, the song was such a hit that 500,000 copies of the sheet music were sold in the first 12 weeks of its publication... a record to that date.

IN 1927 – Fidel Castro, the innocent babe who was to become Cuba's dictator, made his appearance.

IN 1930 – A new aviation speed record was established when Cpt. Frank Hawks flew from Los Angeles to New York City in 12 hours and 25 minutes.

IN 1935 (AND A DAY LATER, ON AUG. 14) – The Social Security Act was passed by the U.S. Congress.

IN 1945 (AGAIN ON AUG. 14) – Japan accepted the Allied terms of unconditional surrender, signed formally on Sept. 1 on board the USS Missouri.

IN 1956 – At the Democratic National Convention in Chicago (Aug. 13-17) Harry S. Truman backed Averill Harriman of New York but Adlai Stevenson of Illinois won the nomination for the presidency on the first ballot. His running mate was Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

IN 1961 – East Germany closed the border between East and West Berlin to stop the exodus of East Germans and began work on a wall which would divide the city.

IN 1962 (AND ONE DAY LATER, ON AUG. 14) – The largest cash robbery in U.S. history occurred when a gang held up a U. S. Mail truck near Plymouth, Mass. and stole $1,551,277.

IN 1965 (BETWEEN AUG. 11-16) – Property damage in the sum of $200 million was caused by Negroes rioting in the Watts area of Los Angeles. Thirty-five people died in the uprising.

IN 1970 (AND ONE DAY EARLIER, ON AUG. 12) – A postal reform measure was signed by Richard M. Nixon creating an independent U. S. Postal Service, thus relinquishing governmental control of U. S. Mails after almost two centuries. The act took effect on July 1, 1971.

With our good old summer friend, zucchini, once again producing like mad in local gardens, we gals can always use a few new methods for fixing the stuff. Here are a couple recipes sent in by a reader from Ypsilanti Township, Mrs. Sandy Harris.

SWEET-AND-SOUR ZUCCHINI

2 1/2 cups zucchini, cut into cubes
3 T. vegetable oil
1/4 cup coarsely chopped onion
1/2 cup plum sauce (available at grocery stores)
4 tsp. soy sauce
1 can (16 oz.) bean sprouts
3 T. chopped pimiento (optional)

Heat oil in thin skillet (or a wok if you have one). Add zucchini and saute about three minutes. Add onion and saute two more minutes or until onion is soft. Add plum sauce and soy sauce. Just before serving, add bean sprouts and pimiento and stir just until heated. Serves six.

CORN AND ZUCCHINI

1/4 lb. butter or oleo
1 tsp. chili powder
1/8 tsp. garlic salt
2 cups fresh cooked corn
1 lb. cooked sliced zucchini

Melt butter, add chili powder and garlic salt. Stir in corn and cooked sliced zucchini. Heat. Serves 6 to 8.

They both sound easy and delicious and, because we headed for Northern Michigan over the weekend, I just didn't have time to give either of the newcomers a try. So — you're on your own!

THE BOTTOM LINE: The honeymoon is over when he finds out he married a big spender and she finds out she didn't.

WCC plans art appreciation class

A new art appreciation class, open to the public, will be offered by Washtenaw Community College on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons beginning in September. Registration for the class is underway now and will continue through Sept. 3.

The class, Museum Visits, will provide those enrolled with time, one afternoon a week, to visit area museums and art galleries where tours will be given designed especially for the class participants. Classroom sessions will be developed to help participants appreciate the various periods and styles and types of art to be viewed. The class may be taken for 3-hours credit.

The class which meets on Tuesday afternoon from 1-2 p.m. on the Main Campus of the College at 4800 East Huron River Drive will also meet on Wednesday afternoons for visits to the various museums and galleries.

Questions regarding the class should be directed to WCC staff at (313) 973-3548. Registration can be accomplished by phone through Aug. 23 by phoning (313) 973-3641 between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Quotes worth quoting...

"I have found the best way to give advice to your children is to find out what they want and then advise them to do it.

Harry S. Truman said it.

Screening offered disabled kids

Infants and toddlers 0-5 years of age with an identified disability who reside in the Wayne-Westland, Romulus, Van Buren or Inkster school districts are requested to register now for a summer screening appointment which will be scheduled during August 18-122.

The screening will be held at Wilson School, 1225 S. Wildwood, Westland.

The phone numbers to call are 721-1890 or 722-3268, (a.m. only).

The purpose of the screening is to determine eligibility for school placement and-or supportive services according to Michigan State Law.

State law requires that services be made available to persons birth through 25 years of age with mental, emotional, physical, health, hearing, vision, speech, developmental or learning problems.

Services offered depend upon disability but include specially trained teachers, physical and occupational therapists, home and parent programs as well as classroom enrollment.

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS BIRD

Doug, Judy Bird are Air Force enlistees

Two Van Buren Township residents, Douglas and Judy Beard, enlisted July 13 in the U. S. Air Force Reserve. A-1c Judy Beard will be assigned to the 924 Mobility Support Flight as a personnel specialist. S-Sgt. Douglas Beard is to be assigned to the 924 Tactical Airlift Group as an administrative supervisor. Both units are stationed at Selfridge Air National Guard Base in Mt. Clemens.

The parents of Bill and Margaret, both students at North Junior High School, the Beards also are active in the local Boy Scout program of the Detroit Area Council, Huron District.

Douglas is serving as Assistant District Commissioner and Scoutmaster of Troop 1071 sponsored by the First United Methodist Church of Belleville. His wife is serving as a Unit Commissioner and as a member of the District Roundtable Staff and is also Club Advancement Chairman for the Huron District.

WCC's 'joggers run' set to go on Aug. 17

Entry forms are now available and are being accepted for the first annual Washtenaw Community College run for joggers in this area to be held on Sunday morning, Aug. 17. Two runs are scheduled: a Seven Mile River Dam Run and the Orchard 1.5 Mile Fun Run.

The Seven Mile River Dam Run includes scenic area near the College on Huron River Drive, including residential and park areas, paved and gravel roads and pathways and hills. The Orchard 1.5 Mile Fun Run is a looping course around the College campus.

The entry fee for the race is $5 per person. The first 500 entrants will receive T-shirts at check-in time. There is no entry fee for the Fun Run. T-shirts for these runners will cost $3. Entries will be received up to the morning of the race. Check in is 8 to 8:45 a.m on the west side of the College's Student Center Building at 4800 East Huron River Drive.

The Dam Run will begin at 9:20 a.m.; the Fun Run will begin at 9:30 a.m. Certificates will be awarded to all finishers in both runs. Medals will be given to top finishers, both male and female in the River Dam Run.

Pending wedding announced

Ronald Sucharski of Romulus is happy to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of his mother, Bertha Sucharski of Romulus, to Charles Walker of Westland.

The couple planned to leave Michigan Aug. 13 and travel to Alabama where they will be united in marriage. On their return, a reception will be held in their honor.

He's Ryan Aaron

There's a new sound being heard these midsummer days at the Romulus home of Mark and Carol Rutkowski who reside at 37101 Neville Street — that of their infant son, Ryan Aaron.

Their first child, the baby arrived at 6:46 p.m. July 24 at Riverside Osteopathic Hospital in Trenton, weighed 7 lbs. - 2 ozs. and measured 19-¾ inches.

Ryan is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rutkowski and Mrs. Phyllis Opificius, all of Romulus, and the great-grandson of Mrs. Dorothy Brookhouse of Honor, Mich.

FICTION

"The Chains" by Gerald Green. This recreates with astounding authenticity, the decades since the turn of the century — the lives of the immigrants, the growing pains of the labor movement, the legitimitizing of family fortunes acquired by illicit means.

"Split Infinity" by Piers Anthony. Being marked for death on one world wasn't enough for Stile. Hardly had he escaped assassination on the science-oriented world of Proton than he found himself on Phaze, a world of magic, where some power was also bent on eliminating him.

"The House of the Prophet" by Louis Auchincloss. The author's most powerful and ambitious novel in more than a decade, a penetrating, full-depth character study with a rich supporting cast and scenes that range from New York and Paris to a resort colony in Maine, from Georgetown dinner parties to an idyllic barge trip through the south of France. All are drawn with the unerring Auchincloss touch and his portrait of Felix Leitner stands with "The Rector of Justin" as one of his greatest achievements.

CRAFTS

"The How-to Book of International Dolls" by Loretta Holz. A mammoth number of dolls from all over the world have been photographed for this volume, which is both a practical how-to guide and a collector's book.

"The Sewing Machine Craft Book" by Carolyn Hall. For everyone from beginners to those who have been sewing forever, this unique handbook liberates the sewing machine from its purely practical status by presenting a wide range of creative sewing techniques.

HEALTH

"The Back-Relief from Pain" by Alan Stoddard. This clearly written book has over 100 photographs and other illustrations specifically taken to help you understand your back better and find relief from pain.

"Healing from Within" by Dennis T. Jaffe. The co-author of TM gives you the psychological techniques that you can use, in partnership with your physician, to achieve better health and prevent illness.

NON-FICTION

"What You Should Know About Medical Lab Tests" by Bernard Kliman. This is a comprehensive guide to testing techniques and to the specific information your doctor looks for when ordering a medical laboratory test or battery of tests. It explains what test results can mean. And it specifies the normal costs you can expect to pay for each test.

Rainbow Girls back from confab

Eighteen members of Belleville Assembly No. 49, Rainbow for Girls, with their mother Advisor, Frances McAtee, members of the Board, members of Belleville Chapter No. 73, O.E.S., and Myrtle Lodge No. 89 F. & A. M. attended the Grand Assembly of Rainbow for Girls held at Traverse City July 28 to Aug. 3.

Roberta Welt, daughter of the Robert Welts of Willis Road, was installed as Grand Worthy Advisor on Saturday. Past Worthy Advisors, Cheryl Viers was appointed Grand Representative to Germany and Lori Williams Grand Representative to Florida. Evelyn and Erwin Claxton, Cheryl Viers and Lori Williams received the Grand Cross of Color. Several DeMolay Boys also attended the installation services.

West Coast Greca clan celebrates

The California branch of the Leo Greca family got together for a dual celebration on June 29. Jo Anne and Walt Key of Los Altos, whose silver wedding anniversary was July 1, were given a surprise party by Jim and Sherry (Greca) Burkhouse of San Ramon.

The second reason for the party was the imminent promotion of Capt. Phil Greca to major in the U.S. Army. He is stationed with his family at Fort Ord.

Also attending the celebration were Larry and Janette (Greca) Ruggiero of Santa Clara.

The aforementioned are the children and in-laws of Mabel Greca of Belleville and the late Leo Greca.

Family gets together for 80th birthday

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

On Tuesday, Aug. 5, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cullin of East Huron River Drive entertained at a family dinner honoring their mother, Mrs. Arthur (Helen) Cullin of Sumpter Road on her 80th birthday. Present were her sons, Glenn and wife, and Don Cullin from Litchfield, Ohio; her sisters, Cora Bradshaw, Marie Roberts and Mildred Artley, and also Mrs. May Chapman of Belleville Road.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bradshaw of Ypsilanti, and Mr. and Mrs. John Rockwell of Potter Drive joined them for birthday cake and ice cream.

Guests this past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Palmer of Clarence Street were their son-in-law and daughter, John and Cynthia Fletcher from Norman, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hurst from Vernon, Texas. While here the foursome enjoyed a trip to Niagara Falls.

On Tuesday of the same week Mr. and Mrs. Elywyn Wellfare and Ellen Clemons from Alto, Mich. were guests at the Palmer home.

Mrs. B. P. Hopson of Belleville Road returned home last Wednesday after having spent two weeks at Kent City visiting friends, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Munn and Mrs. Irene Hagadon, and other friends.

Mrs. Burton (Nora) Smith of Tyler Road has been a patient this past week at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor following surgery.

Mrs. Cora Bradshaw returned last week after spending some time with friends at Mullett Lake..

Guests on Monday, Aug. 4, at the Ted Lupher home on Karr Road were relatives of Mrs. Lupher — her brother Don and wife, Mabel Logan from Osceola, Ind., her sister, Aleta Halsanger from Bremen, Ind., and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Connie Halsanger, and her daughter, Michelle, from Clearwater, Fla.

Mrs. M. C. Fielder and son, Herbert, of Henry Street returned home last Monday after spending the past 10 days at Mullett Lake.

Mrs. Vernon Ketchum of Harmony Lane, her sister-in-law, Betty Ketchum of Canton, and Karl Ketchum of Westland were overnight guests on Friday, Aug. 1, of the former's son Douglas and wife at Otsego. The next day with their son Tom and wife, Heidi, of Kalamazoo, they journeyed to Pekin, Ill. where they attended the Morris family reunion held at the Marine Corps League.

Having sold their house on Clay Road, Mr. and Mrs. Walter James moved last week to their new home at Tazewell, Tenn. On Friday, Aug. 1, members of Myrtle Lodge No. 89 F & A M and Belleville Chapter No. 73, O.E.S. met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grover of New Boston for a farewell party.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Griffin of Robson Road have returned after a month's tour of the south west where they visited friends in Mesa, Ariz., Death Valley, Yosemite National Park, Lake Tahoe and other interesting places.

Mr. and Mrs. George Robson of Tyler Road spent last Tuesday with the former's sister, Mrs. Lester Haywood of Farmington Hills.

On Sunday, Aug. 3, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Golka of Karr Road and Mrs. Frances Korgal of Sumpter Road attended a party at the Lake Erie cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wenderski honoring Mr. Wenderski who has retired after having been employed at Budd Wheels in Hamtramck for 43 years.

Mrs. Frances McAtee of West Columbia Avenue, daughter, Ruth, son, Phillip, and Mrs. Jean Clark of Montague Street, daughters, Darlene and Rhea, attended funeral services on Tuesday, Aug 4, for a cousin, Phillip Shutes, at the Silvercrest Baptist Church in Pontiac. Mr. Shutes passed away suddenly Aug. 1 at age 65. Burial took place in White Chapel Memorial Gardens.

Mrs. Ted Lupher of Karr Road accompanied Mrs. Don Huntsinger of Troy to Kent City on Saturday, Aug. 2, where they attended the wedding of Amy Sue Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Holmes, to Ronald Meisch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meisch, at the First United Methodist Church. They also attended the reception at the Sons of Norway Hall in Muskegon.

The third birthday of Amanda Jane Ward, the daughter of Walter and Jane W. Ward of McKinley Street, was celebrated Aug. 1. Attending were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sante of Dearborn and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ward of Wayne and an uncle and aunt, Paul Bossio of Dearborn and Linda Ramer of Nashville, Tenn.

The next day, with her best friend, Lesly Kincaid and Melissa Norton of Belleville, her sister Alison and brother Andrew, she marked her birthday with a party at McDonald's.

IN MEMORY OF
IRENE B. DULECKI
(August 8, 1975)

It's been five long lonely years.

Your loved ones miss you so.

Lovely memories still bring tears but you were called to go:

We know you are up in Heaven, watching over us.

In time we hope God will grant the same to us.
E.S. DULECKI FAMILY

PEOPLE SHOULD enjoy their loved ones while they can, we miss our son Jerry. Howard Watkins, 34966 Richard St. Wayne

15. Autos for Sale

"10" Toyota Ann Arbor's 10 Year Anniversary Sale "10"

REBATES up to $1200 on every car in stock

We will sell 200 cars in August

"10" because you can enter a drawing for $500 just by visiting our showroom before August 31, 1980. And, if you purchase a new, or used car or truck, you can enter the grand prize drawing for $1,000. Total possibility of winning $1,500.

This sale is a "10"

"10" because you'll be doing business with Toyota Ann Arbor—Michigan's only winner of Toyota's coveted Quality Dealer Award.

No reasonable offer refused

"10" because our August allocation of cars and trucks is the largest this year. The exact model, color and options of your choice are here or on the way.

"10" because we're taking less profit per car than ever before. If we sell more now, then later we'll get more of the cars that already have made us Washtenaw County's Largest Import Dealer.

"10" because of special deals on our large inventory of late-model used cars. Our used cars will change every day. If you don't see the car that you want now, you'll see it later. Also, we'll be giving top dollar trade-in allowances.

"10" because how else do you describe a 10 Year Anniversary Sale with cash prizes, rebates and great deals on a great selection of new and used cars and trucks. Come in and see our "10".

Win up to $1500
